

SUPREME COURT
FINDS THERE IS NO
HARVESTER TRUST

Holds International Co. Has Complied With Consent Decree of 1918 to Restore Competition.

GOVERNMENT FILED
FIRST SUIT IN 1912

Justice Sanford Declares
Price Cutting Was Not a Move to Dominate Market.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, June 6.—The International Harvester Co. was held by the United States Supreme Court today to have complied with the consent decree arranged to restore competitive market conditions in its field.

After a suit under the Sherman Anti-Trust Law had been filed by the Government in 1912, a decree was entered in 1918 providing that if competitive conditions were not restored within 18 months after the end of the World War, the Supreme Court could take further action. The Government went back into the courts in 1922 but lost the decision and the appeal to the Supreme Court followed.

Justices Price Reduction.
Justice Sanford, in delivering the opinion, said: "It does not appear that since the entry of the consent decree the International Co. had used its capital and resources . . . for the purpose of with the effect of restraining and suppressing the interstate trade in harvesting machinery . . . or that it has at any time controlled and dominated the trade in harvesting machinery by the regulation of prices."

"It is true that in 1921 and 1922 the period of acute depression in the agricultural implement industry . . . not only the International Co., but its competitors . . . made general price reductions in the prices of harvesting machines and other implements."

"But the International Co. did at any time reduce the prices of new replacement cost; and its reduction in prices was not intended to eliminate competition and has not had the effect." It has not, during those two years or more, attempted to dominate or control or to control or dominate the harvesting machinery industry by the compulsory regulation of prices.

Competitors Can Follow Prices.
The most that can be said as to this is that many of its competitors have been accustomed, independently and as a matter of business expediency, to follow approximately the prices at which it has sold its harvesting machines; but many of its competitors has habitually sold its machines at somewhat higher prices. The law, however, does not make the mere size of a corporation, however impressive, the existence of unexercised power on its part, an offense, when accompanied by unlawful conduct in the exercise of its power.

"And the fact that competitors may see proper, in the exercise of their own judgment to follow the prices of another manufacturer, does not establish any suppression of competition or show any sinister intention."

ESCAPE ALIVE AFTER BEING SWEEPED OVER POWER DAM

Man Loses Control of Boat
On Brink of Fall at Noel, Mo.

By the Associated Press.
NOEL, Mo., June 6.—Chris Hedrick and Leslie Plunkett, both of Joplin, escaped alive yesterday after they had been swept over the Noel District Electric Co.'s power dam at Noel, Mo. They were clinging across the swollen Elk river just above the dam when Hedrick, at the oars, lost control of the boat and it was swept over the dam.

The two men leaped but were unable to free themselves from the swirling current. Hedrick's head was caught against a rock and he appeared to be dead as he plunged into the water below the dam. However, he was caught by Charles Hedrick, who was in the boat, and dragged to shore, where he was revived. Hedrick grasped a tree about a quarter of a mile down stream and saved himself out.

Supreme Court Reopens to Oct. 3.

WASHINGTON, June 6.—The U. S. Supreme Court recessed today until Oct. 3 without deciding any case involving the validity of the Teapot Dome naval oil leases.

Failure of the court to open on the case may make it possible for the Government to try a criminal conspiracy action against Sinclair and Albert B. Fall, Secretary of the Interior, where the civil case is disposed of.

PRESIDENT CABLES PRAISE TO CHAMBERLIN IN BERLIN

Message Includes Greetings to German People—Secretary of War Davis Also Wires the Army's Felicitations

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, June 6.—A cablegram congratulating Clarence D. Chamberlin on his flight to Germany was sent today by President Coolidge.

"Congratulations upon your wonderful feat in setting a new non-stop record in conquest of the air," the message said. "Our country rejoices with me in your safely making first sustained flight from America to Germany with our greetings to its people."

The message was sent through the State Department to the U. S. Embassy.

Congratulations were sent by Secretary of War Davis in a cablegram to be delivered by the American Military attaché at Berlin.

"Please convey to Clarence D. Chamberlin my sincere congratulations on his remarkable flight from New York to Germany," the message said. "The Army is proud that a former comrade should so gloriously demonstrate in peace the accomplishments in war service for his country."

In a cablegram to Chamberlin, which was to be delivered by Ambassador Schuman, Secretary Kellogg congratulated the pilot on his "splendid achievement." "Your flight should be a great impetus to the development of commercial aviation," his message said, "which cutting down at is eventually with the time of direct communication between the United States and Europe, must bring the two continents more closely together."

German Ambassador to U. S. Congratulates Flyers' Wives.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, June 6.—Telegrams of congratulation on the successful flight of their husbands from the United States to Germany were received today by Mrs. Wilda Chamberlin and Mrs. Grace Levine from Ambassador Maltzan at Washington. Congratulations to the flyers also were sent by the Ambassador to United States Ambassador Schuman in Berlin.

The message to Mrs. Chamberlin read: "Please accept warmest congratulations in the wonderful achievement performed by your husband in his successful flight from New York to Germany. The new world record has been attained by an American pilot, a new link between America and Europe has been woven and Germany is proud to receive the hero of this achievement."

That to Mrs. Levine read: "Please accept sincerest felicitations on the safe arrival of your husband after participating in the remarkable flight from New York to Germany. In organizing this undertaking Mr. Levine deserves greatest credit and has earned gratitude of Germany which is proud to have been the destination of the Columbia and will accord the warmest reception to the two heroes of the hour."

The message to the American Ambassador in Berlin said: "Please accept and transmit my heartiest congratulations and sincerest admiration for the great victory of your gallant flyers Chamberlin and Levine who in the same spirit as our Eckener overcame the elements of space and time between our two countries. I am happy that these brave American boys are the most successful supporters of our mutual diplomatic work of good will and understanding between our two great nations. Auf Wiedersehen."

STORM KEPT FLYERS FROM REACHING GERMAN CAPITAL LAST NIGHT

LINDBERGH TRIES TO CATCH GLIMPSE OF THE COLUMBIA

Rushes to Bridge of the Memphis, but Mist Prevents Vision of Plane 12 Miles Away.

PASSES QUIET DAY AFTER NIGHT OF REST

Admiral Burrage Arranges Meals So Flyer May Accumulate 'One Great Sleep' on His Way Home.

By Wireless to the Associated Press U. S. S. MEMPHIS, June 6.—News that the Bellanca plane, Columbia, had passed within 12 miles of the Memphis, in its transatlantic flight from New York to a European destination, was the big event of Sunday, not only for Capt. Lindbergh but for the entire personnel of this cruiser, which is taking the aviator back to America.

Lindbergh rushed to the bridge as soon as the wireless report was heard that the Mauretania had sighted the plane. He scanned the horizon, hoping to catch a glimpse of the Columbia. Although the Mauretania at that time was still in sight, nothing whatever was seen of the flyers by the Memphis. This probably was due to a heavy mist.

Reads Papers and Letters. On the whole, Capt. Lindbergh had the quietest day yesterday since he left home to start his epochal flight. He did as he desired, reading American newspapers and letters. In the morning he attended divine service by the chaplain, Lieut. Earl M. Criger, and afterwards passed some time on the bridge with Benjamin Mahoney of the firm that built his plane, "The Spirit of St. Louis."

He climbed to the crow's nest, where he enjoyed watching the spray breaking over the bow of the Memphis, while the cruiser was backing a 35-mile head wind which held the ship back more or less all day. Through the night the wind weakened and the Memphis was endeavoring to make up for lost time in bringing Capt. Lindbergh home for the great reception that awaits him there.

Glad to be free from the strenuous round of welcoming ceremonies and entertainments, Lindbergh is making the most of Rear Admiral Burrage's welcoming greeting when he boarded the ship to feel completely at home and "take no orders from anyone." He has already had two good nights' rest—nights when he could drop off to sleep without thought of a seemingly unending round of introductions, speeches and handshaking on the morrow.

Getting "One Great Sleep." Saturday night, Lindbergh's first night aboard the war vessel, the Admiral arranged an early dinner so that his guest could retire early, and again last night the flyer sought his quarters at an early hour. He remarked that the Vice Admiral was a man after his own heart, for suggesting "one great sleep."

In return for the Admiral's solicitude, Lindbergh probably will comply with his request that as a souvenir of the voyage he be given the two huge cases in which "The Spirit of St. Louis" was crated for the journey home. Admiral Burrage wants to use the cases as a bungalow.

Lindbergh's luck came near to falling him Saturday, but turned up in the end, though causing him considerable delay about his baggage, which failed to arrive from Paris on time. The baggage consisted of many gifts contained in great packing cases, marked "fragile," boxes, suitcases, new leather bags and bundles of many kinds and sizes. The baggage was shipped from Paris by train, but did not reach Cherbourg in time, and was brought to the Memphis by a fast launch from the U. S. destroyer Breck.

Capt. Lindbergh and Admiral Burrage heaved sighs of relief when it appeared, and the moment

Navy Dirigible Will Fly to Sea to Meet Lindbergh.

By the Associated Press. WASHINGTON, June 6.—Officers and men of the navy dirigible Los Angeles, many of them survivors of the Shenandoah disaster, will be the first American airmen to greet Capt. Charles A. Lindbergh on his triumphant return to his native shores. Announcement was made today by the Navy that the Los Angeles had been directed to leave its base at Lakehurst, N. J., Friday morning and proceed over the Atlantic to meet the cruiser Memphis as far as sea as practicable.

The Los Angeles will deliver a batch of invitations received by the semi-official reception committee here and forwarded to Lakehurst by airplane.

Friday afternoon the scouting fleet of naval seaplanes will put out from the Virginia Capes to meet the Memphis and escort the vessel to Chesapeake Bay. As the cruiser swings into the Potomac River, an armada of army and navy planes will meet it as escort to the navy yard pier. The Los Angeles will remain with the Memphis, if practicable, until the cruiser is warped into the President's wharf here.

At Alexandria, Va., a squadron of naval planes from Washington and Marine Corps planes from Quantico, Va., will join the air escort.

American labor was given a part in the preparation for receiving Capt. Lindbergh in Washington. President Green, Vice President Morrison and Vice President Hayden of the American Federation of Labor were appointed to membership on the semi-official reception committee.

$12,500 Offered for First San Francisco-Manila Flight.

By the Associated Press. MANILA, June 6.—Stewart Tait, Manila business man and president and general manager of the Olympic Athletic Club of Manila, announced today he and four other Manila men had agreed to post an offer of a prize of $12,500 for the first flight between San Francisco and Manila. The flight may be made in either direction.

Bellanca Plane Lands Near Berlin, Breaks Propeller

Jacob Gould Schurman, and his official party left Tempelhof Field at 9:00 a. m., after having waited for four hours, but returned when it was reported that the Columbia was over Magdeburg, less than two hours' flight from Berlin.

Bad Weather in Germany.

As soon as the landing at Klinge became known the Ambassador conferred with German officials regarding arrangements for the care of the aviators, and a plane hurried off, carrying American and German officials.

This was immediately followed by a half dozen other machines bearing newspaper men. It was said this afternoon that it was doubtful whether the Columbia could be put into proper condition to permit of the Americans flying her to Berlin tomorrow, if they cannot use their own machine, they will fly to Berlin in a German plane.

As the night wore on, taxicabs were at a premium, and when they finally arrived at their destination, there no longer was a question of parking cars; they were simply packed together without a chance of getting out for hours.

The Columbia, its transatlantic flight came near approaching the world's record for sustained flight, recently established by the same plane when Chamberlain and Bert Acosta flew over Long Island for more than 51 hours.

Cobham Thinks Regular Trans-Ocean Service Distant.

By the Associated Press. LONDON, June 6.—Sir Alan Cobham, Great Britain's famous long distance aviator, was most enthusiastic upon hearing the news of the successful flight of the Bellanca plane from New York to Germany.

"A wonderful flight!" he exclaimed. "Not only is it that because of the great distance flown, but by reason of the fact that for the first time a passenger has been piloted across the Atlantic seated in a cabin and not in a cockpit."

"There is a hint of prophecy in that, although I am of the opinion that the day is distant when we shall have a regular trans-Atlantic passenger service."

"Still, Beriot in 1909 flew the straits of Dover, and today we have a cross-channel time table for airplanes."

"Chamberlain and his friend were in the air longer than 40 hours and flew through two nights. That meant good navigation and a very good engine."

"Of course, Capt. Lindbergh (on his New York-Paris hop) was all alone. A companion in a plane helps the pilot greatly, even if the other man is not a mechanic."

"This flight, like Lindbergh's, was a 'stunt,' but the great point about it is that as long as your engine keeps going, you can keep in the air, given good weather."

"The value of these spectacular transatlantic hops is that they prove to the public the amazing possibilities of airplanes and the safety of flying."

Contrary Winds Caused Aviators to Change Course.

By Radio to the Post-Dispatch and the Chicago Daily News. COBURG, Germany, June 6.—Clarence Chamberlain and Charles Levine, the American trans-Atlantic aviators, reached Europe in the latitude of the English Channel. They followed the channel east until they reached the French coast at Boulogne, then followed the coast northward. Their plane, the Columbia, was seen last evening at Ghent and later north of Rotterdam. Then the two flyers apparently turned east and passed over the Rhineland about the latitude of Gelsenkirchen.

The weather, which had been favorable, produced contrary winds, to avoid which the aviators bore southward. But at the village of Belda, near the small town of Eisleben bei Halle, their gasoline was suddenly exhausted.

Mussolini Followed Flight With Marked Chart.

By the Associated Press. ROME, June 6.—Premier Mussolini, as Minister of Aeronautics, followed the flight of the Columbia on a chart, marking with pencil the points reached.

He is reported to have said: "The dangers of flight constitute a bond between all aviators similar to that which existed among knights in the days of chivalry."

Although disappointed at the decision of Chamberlain and Levine to fly to Germany instead of to Italy, the people of Rome hailed with unstinted enthusiasm the achievement of spanning the Atlantic from New York for the second time in a little more than a fortnight.

The newspaper invariably refers to the plane Columbia, as a "magnificent product of Italian genius," this being a reference to the nationality of Giuseppe Bellanca, builder of the plane, who was born in Sicily.

Because of conflicting reports, the crowds which had waited all night for the arrival of the Columbia, did not abandon hope until afternoon that the plane was flying toward Rome. The newspapers received thousands of calls for information, and groups of enthusiasts waited near the bulletin boards, despite recurrent showers.

A report at 3 o'clock this morning that the plane was heading for Rome sent a rush of several hundred automobiles to the Clamion Air Field where a large throng had already gathered. Special editions of the newspapers were snatched up by the scores of thousands.

Mexicans Display Great Interest in Flight of Columbia.

By the Associated Press. MEXICO CITY, June 6.—The New York-Germany flight of the Columbia excited interest here comparable among recent events.

At 9:00 a. m. the New York-Germany flight of the Columbia excited interest here comparable among recent events.

Newspaper offices have been swamped by telephone inquiries about the progress of the plane, and crowds gathered around bulletin boards waiting for dispatches.

Cablegrams showing that Chamberlain and Levine were breaking the world's nonstop distance record brought many expressions of admiration and delight.

COLUMBIA FLIGHT WINS NEW PRAISE OF FRENCH PRESS

By the Associated Press. PARIS, June 6.—"Miss Columbia has crossed the Atlantic," was the headline today in nearly every morning paper in Paris.

French air authorities demonstrated their interest in the flight in a practical manner. All night long searchlights and lighthouses blazed trails from Cherbourg to Marseilles, so that the plane could find its way when it reached France. Great lights of Paris, Dijon and Lyons swept the skies, and for much of the time rockets and parachute flares illuminated the air route high over Le Bourget Air Field.

But Paris declares no flight can ever dim the glory that is Lindbergh's.

"Lindbergh remains for us the most accomplished symbol of juvenile audacity, courage and faith," writes Leon Halby in L'Intransigeant. "He was a messenger of the sky. Nothing can stain his legend which remains as charming and as pure as a page of the Mists."

"The impossible of yesterday is becoming a pleasure jaunt," comments the Petit Journal, lengthily comparing American achievements with French attempts. "Shortly Commander Byrd will come," it adds, "then in a month another dauntless one, and he will be more than a tourist."

The paper says there is a moral in American ability to produce men who do such things, who build such motors and ships.

London Papers Praise Feat of American Flyers.

By the Associated Press. LONDON, June 6.—Completion of the second trans-Atlantic hop from New York within 16 days brought a chorus of admiring comments from the evening papers here today. The Evening News says all the world congratulates Chamberlain and Levine and their com-

try on this second flight across the Atlantic, which is as dramatic as Capt. Lindbergh's voyage. "The United States may well be proud of its ocean flyers," says the News, continuing: "The welcome to Chamberlain and Levine in Paris and Brussels shows that in the appreciation of bravery there are no such things as frontiers. The United States is becoming used to world championships, and here is a new one."

The problem of trans-Atlantic flying has passed out of its first stage, reflects the Evening Standard. It says that the flyer who first crosses the Atlantic with the help of, say, floating depot or by refueling in air from a plane sent up from a liner, will not have done anything as spectacular as Lindbergh and Chamberlain did, but will have done just as much towards bringing the feat into the sphere of practical utility.

"America certainly is making spectacular history in aviation," remarks the Evening Star. "Twice within a week or so its airmen have shown across the Atlantic the principle of the flying machine. Lindbergh's feat already has been excelled. It is a remarkable triumph."

"Why should I install a gas gauge," the flyer inquired. "What I want to know how much gas I have left all I have to do is to look at the tank. I can tell by the sound what the gas level is."

Before taking off on his transatlantic hop, Chamberlain was approached by a representative of an instrument manufacturing company regarding a gauge.

SENSE OF HEARING USED BY CHAMBERLIN TO GAUGE 'GAS' Flyer Declined to Have Fuel Supply Indicator Installed Before Leaving.

Sponsor of Canceled Flight to Paris to Give Mrs. Chamberlin $5000.

NEW YORK, June 6.—Five thousand dollars will be given Mrs. Wilda Chamberlin by the Brooklyn Chamber of Commerce in recognition of her husband's transatlantic flight. Ralph Jonas, president of the organization, said today.

"A gift of some sort also will be presented Mrs. Grace Levine, wife of Chamberlin's passenger," Jonas said. Both women are expected to carry their gifts to their husbands when they sail to meet them in Europe.

The Brooklyn Chamber of Commerce sponsored the canceled New York-to-Paris flight of the Columbia.

MEN AND WOMEN

TWO WOMEN ARE FOUND STRANGLING IN APARTMENT

Fingerprints and Neighbor's Report of Man She Saw Enter Detroit Home Are the Only Clues.

SEEK EX-HUSBAND OF ONE FOR QUESTIONING

Police Find He Has Been Absent Four Months—Cord Knotted About Throats of Both Victims.

By the Associated Press. DETROIT, Mich., June 6.—Photographs of numerous fingerprints and the report of a neighbor that she had seen a man go into the flat last Wednesday, were the principal clues held today by police investigating the strangling of Mrs. Hinnie May, 53 years old, and Mrs. Noresh Chendia Atorhy, 25. The bodies of the two women, each with a cord knotted about the neck were found in Mrs. May's apartment last night.

Police are seeking Mrs. Atorhy's divorced husband for questioning, but found his home deserted and learned he had not been at his office for about four months.

Neither woman had been seen since last Wednesday. Discovery of the bodies followed a report by the owner of the apartment building that he had called daily since that time to collect the rent and had received no response to his knocks. Charles T. Earl, deputy coroner, said it was impossible to say whether the victims had been struck or subjected to any other violence. A postmortem examination will be held today.

CHAMBERLIN'S VILLAGE POPULATION 19, TO CELEBRATE

TETERBORO, N. J., June 6.—John Strunk, acting Mayor, today called a special meeting of the Borough Council to make plans for celebrating the success of Reorder Chamberlin in his flight to Germany.

This little community of 19 voters on the Hackensack meadows below Hasbrouck Heights, has been electing Chamberlin Reorder—an officer similar to that of Police Judge—for the last five years, but he has never tried a case.

An American flag was run up on the squat Borough Hall in the rear of which Mr. and Mrs. Chamberlin have had their quarters for several years, and Edward Reed, manager of the Teterboro Golf Club, has offered the use of grounds and club house for the celebration.

There are more airplanes than houses in Teterboro. The plant of the Atlantic Aircraft Corporation, with which Anthony Fokker is associated, a hangar of the Wright Aeronautical Corporation, for which Chamberlin is chief test pilot, the Borough Hall, two or three residences, and the Golf Club are all the buildings in the borough. Nearly every male resident of the place flies and owns his own plane.

YOUNG SISTER AND BROTHER OF LEVINE PRAYED FOR HIM

PITTSBURG, Pa., June 6.—Two little children Saturday night here prayed for their big brother, when "some where over the Atlantic."

Today Shirley Levine, 9, and her brother, Mortimer, 6, jumped up and down and clapped their hands in glee when they were told the airplane carrying Clarence D. Chamberlin and Charles A. Levine had reached Germany.

Isaac Levine, father of Chamberlin's flight companion, and the children, was in New York when his son began the flight. Shirley and Mortimer will join him today. They are going to Europe, but on a steamship.

"I'd be afraid to fly all the way across the ocean," said Shirley. "Shucks, I wouldn't," chimed in Mortimer.

The elder Levine, who is president of the Columbia Steel and Tube Co., is a resident of Pittsburgh.

CHEERS AT BELLANCA HANGAR GREET NEWS OF LANDING

By the Associated Press. CURTIS FIELD, N. Y., June 6.—Caps were thrown in the air and cheers rang out in the Bellanca hangar this morning when news of the Columbia's landing in Germany was carried to the mechanics who promoted the plane for its record-breaking flight across the Atlantic. The mechanics had stayed up all night, anxiously awaiting word of the landing. With anything like favorable conditions, the mechanics had said, they felt no fear for the plane or its occupants. They were certain it could do what the flyers had planned for it.

John Carisi, factory superintendent of the Columbia Aircraft Corporation, had hardly left the hangar after the hop-off Saturday morning before the start he had carefully gone over every nut and bolt, upon each of which depended the lives of Clarence D. Chamberlin and Charles A. Levine.

Wives of Flyers Say Their Prayers Were Answered

Both Women Invited by German Government to Start for Berlin Tonight on Liner Resolute.

By the Associated Press. NEW YORK, June 6.—Two overjoyed women, relieved of a terrific strain, today were preparing to go to Berlin.

They were Mrs. Clarence D. Chamberlin and Mrs. Charles A. Levine, whose husbands flew to Germany. The wives plan to make their trip by steamer.

A check for $15,000, a prize for Chamberlin, was handed to Mrs. Chamberlin by the Brooklyn Chamber of Commerce at Borough Hall, Brooklyn, this afternoon.

Mrs. Chamberlin, Mrs. Grace Levine, wife of the co-pilot on the Columbia cruise, and Mrs. Charles S. Lockwood, a friend of the two families, expect to sail for Germany in the North German Lloyd liner Berlin at midnight tonight.

The Chamber's plan earlier today was to present a check for $5000 to Mrs. Chamberlin, which was $10,000 less than the original prize to have been given by the organization had the Bellanca plane been the first plane to cross the Atlantic. The mileage showing and the "sportsmanship" of the flyers were said to have caused the Chamber to tender the original sum of $15,000. A gold watch to take to her husband was presented to Mrs. Levine and Mrs. Chamberlin received a traveling bag and Mrs. Levine a wristwatch.

After hours of anxiety, the two women yesterday received the news that the Bellanca plane Columbia, carrying the two men, had reached the Continent. When reports indicated that Berlin was to be the plane's destination, they sent cablegrams of congratulation and word that they were sailing.

Mrs. Chamberlin had retired at a New York hotel, but expressed joy when news of her husband's safe landing at Eisleben, Germany, was received. Mrs. Levine, with other members of the Levine family, remained awake at her home in Belle Harbor, Long Island, and also gave expressions of her joy when the news came early today.

Her Prayers Answered. Mrs. Chamberlin expressed gratitude that her prayers for the safety of the airman had been answered and her husband's ambition to establish a new long-distance record achieved.

She added the great credit is due to G. M. Bellanca, designer of the plane, and to Levine, owner. "I am elated beyond words," said Mrs. Levine, wife of the co-pilot and backer of the flight. "My surprise at my husband taking off has been converted to admiration. I realize now that my hopes and prayers have been granted."

"I am very proud of my boy and his contribution to history," said Isaac Levine, father of the airman. The entire Levine family had remained awake throughout the

LIVERMORE GEMS IN $150,000 LOOT FOUND BY POLICE

Man Arrested at Pistol Point on Long Island Train—Woman and Three Others Also in Custody.

By the Associated Press. NEW YORK, June 6.—One hundred and fifty thousand dollars worth of gems, including the $83,000 in loot from the home of Jesse L. Livermore, wealthy broker, were in the hands of police today following the arrest of one man and detention of his woman companion. The names of the pair were not divulged. It was said that three other men had been taken into custody.

Detectives arrested the one suspect at the point of pistols on a Long Island train at Ronkonkoma, last night.

Police did not identify the recovered jewels beyond saying that part of them were owned by Mr. and Mrs. Livermore and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Aronson, victims of two holdup men in the Livermore Long Island home a week ago.

FUEL SHORTAGE CAUSED FIRST LANDING OF PLANE

Kilgus by Dewitt C. Poole, counselor of the American Embassy in Berlin, who came here as soon as news of the flyers' landing became known.

Chamberlin and Levine were officially welcomed to Kottbus by the Burgomaster, who from the hotel balcony appealed to the populace to give the calm though hearty reception to the flyers.

Obviously disappointed at his failure to reach Berlin, Chamberlin smiled only wanly in response to the congratulations and shook hands liberally as he posed for the photographers with the Burgomaster and the director of the hotel. He was much pleased when Counselor Poole handed him a number of telegrams, especially as one message was from his mother.

Chamberlin's Plane Ran Into Special to the Post-Dispatch. KOTTBUS, Germany, June 6.—"It's not as good as it should have been," said Charles Levine, when he was greeted by a correspondent here today at an impromptu ceremonial luncheon given the flyers by the town dignitaries.

"I am awfully sorry we didn't make Berlin," echoed Chamberlin, who disclosed the two men had gone through a terrific storm yesterday afternoon.

"If it had been for that storm we would have been in Berlin last night," continued Chamberlin. "We ran into a pretty bad storm just after the Mauretania sighted us yesterday. And you know we didn't even have a map of Germany."

"We are certainly glad to meet you," the two flyers chorused as the correspondent entered the Hotel America dining room and found the two men, flanked by the Mayor and City Chamberlain, both attempting to devour tomato soup, while guests were bombarding the men with requests for autographs.

Both were far more interested in their goup than in autographs, but being courteous they were signing autographs between spoonfuls.

"Tell us what it's all about now," said at Chamberlin's request the correspondent. "We have delightful hosts, but they can't speak English and our German is fragmentary. We haven't understood much of anything that has transpired up to now."

Could Hardly See in Fog. "The fog was so bad after we passed the Mauretania it was almost impossible for us to be seen or for us to see anyone," said Chamberlin in an interview. Chamberlin also declared the Bellanca had passed through a terrific storm shortly after it circled the Mauretania.

"The fog was so thick and the night so dark that I had no idea I was going on my course," said Chamberlin. "I finally decided to go above the fog and stay there until morning. So we went above 1000 feet and found the fog every-word was received of the success of Clarence Chamberlin's transatlantic flight.

Denison was in a furore that matched the Armistice celebration as Sunday bulletins brought word that the flyers were nearing their goal. A hush spread over the community in the early morning hours of anxiety, when the fate of the flyers was in doubt, only to give way to renewed rejoicing as word was flashed that the plane had landed.

Fire whistles were blown, auto horns were sounded, blank cartridges were exploded, and automobiles and the town fire trucks were driven pell-mell up and down the streets.

Early in the evening crowds of Chamberlin's old friends gathered about the streets. As Associated Press reports indicated he was nearing his goal, the clamor increased.

Plans for the greatest celebration in the history of Denison are being arranged today by the Chamber of Commerce, American Legion and Kiwanis Club.

Mayor Hunt declared "everything goes boys" and Sheriff Art Green said "The lid's off."

MAN, 75, KILLS ROOMER IN ROW OVER WOMAN

John Lay Says He Shot Henry Jurick When He Refused to Quit Annoying Mrs. Lucille Ross.

Henry Jurick died at City Hospital at 6 a. m. today, of a bullet wound in the chest inflicted five hours before by a 75-year-old man, in an altercation over a young woman.

John Lay, who admits having shot Jurick, is held with the young woman at Soular Street Police Station.

Mrs. Lucille Ross, the indirect cause of the shooting, came to the rooming house at 2916 Chouteau avenue, where both men lived, a week ago. She had left her husband, police were told, and Lay, having known the young woman for several years, gave her one of his three rooms in which to stay.

Lay said that almost immediately Jurick began annoying Mrs. Ross. Last night Jurick came in Lay's room and started for the room occupied by the young woman, according to Lay.

"I told Jurick to leave my quarters and he refused," Lay said. "After we had quarreled for some time and still Jurick would not leave, I took a revolver from a drawer where I kept it and fired at him."

Lay's account of the shooting was corroborated by Mrs. Ross. Jurick had been unable to make a detailed statement.

BEN B. LINDSEY APPEAL FAILS

WASHINGTON, June 6.—Ben B. Lindsey, juvenile court judge at Denver, today was refused a Supreme Court review of the judgment of the Colorado Supreme Court holding he had been defeated at the November, 1924, election by Royal R. Graham.

Lindsey contended he had not been given an opportunity to present his evidence in the trial court, where, and then we went even higher.

"I steered for the east knowing that if I went on that course long enough we would be bound to hit land."

"When the sun came out, this morning we dropped down through the clouds and lo, and behold—we were over a large city. I know there were about five or six big factories underneath."

"Then we tried to steer by our map and our map was no good. I know absolutely nothing about the way Germany looks from the air."

"Not Very Tired." "I'm not very tired," he continued. "I'm only a little bit sleepy. We did not really get to sleep at all although we relieved each other at the steering wheel."

"It was impossible to really sleep. We only succeeded in getting a few short catnaps. We didn't eat very much either. I found it better to do without eating or sleeping and carry the whole thing through on reserve strength."

Levine was greatly surprised when told that his wife was reported to have fainted upon learning he had started on the transocean hop.

"I didn't know she did that," he said. "I saw she had a worried look on her face, but I didn't know it would affect her so violently. But you know if I had told her I could never make the trip, she wouldn't have let me."

"Didn't Have Luck, or Map of Germany," Chamberlin Declared. KOTTBUS, June 6.—"We didn't have luck," said Clarence Chamberlin, in his first description of the flight to the head of the flying field at Kottbus.

"Off the coast of Newfoundland all our measuring instruments went wrong. Off the Irish coast we ran into a terrible storm and escaped by detouring southward over the channel. This good weather continued until we reached Dortmund but there we struck a heavy fog and just imagine—we hadn't even a map of Germany. We were obliged to steer by compass and intuition, which accounts for our landing at Eisleben and missing Berlin."

Chamberlin Noted for Daring And Versatility in the Air And His Trouble-Proof Grin

By the Associated Press. NEW YORK, June 6.—The trans-Atlantic flight of the Columbia has but added to the reputation of Clarence D. Chamberlin, pilot, as one of the most daring and versatile airmen in the country. His accomplishments have been many.

Recently he brought the Columbia to earth safely after her landing gear had been damaged. A narrow cinder roadway leading to the old concrete floor of a small hangar destroyed by fire several years ago is a regular landing field used by Chamberlin when taking his backer, Charles A. Levine, to his home in Belle Harbor, Long Island. Chamberlin at first tried the landing as a stunt and from then on it became a regular practice. A potato patch in the jail yard of the Eastern Penitentiary at Philadelphia was Chamberlin's landing field on another occasion.

Mrs. Chamberlin was his passenger. The pair was flying to Camden when the engine developed carburetor trouble and went dead. "I have flown often with Clarence," said Mrs. Chamberlin, "but I never banded that side-slipped as we did that day. There was a high wind blowing and the bumps were awful. We came down fast, but he leveled off, slowed the ship and landed in a potato patch. It made me ill," Chamberlin repaired the engine and took off again in a few minutes.

Chamberlin is also noted as an aerial photographer. As a carterman he flies alone. On one assignment for a New York paper recently he flew directly over a disastrous fire, perched himself on the edge of the cockpit and held the controls with his legs while he photographed the scene below.

He has rebuilt and sold 231 planes in the past four years. Dispatches from Denison, Ia., quote C. E. Humphrey, superintendent of schools, who was principal of the High School when Chamberlin was a student there, as describing the flyer as a "modest, unassuming fellow with a grin that got him out of nearly all the scrapes in which he became involved."

In fact, Humphrey declared, he knew of only one incident in Chamberlin's high school career when he definitely found that the flyer was at the bottom of the devilment. "That was one day when Chamberlin had fixed up a solution of evil smelling hydrogen sulfide and nearly ruined the morale of the school."

Most interesting perhaps of all the stories told of Chamberlin is one about his ill-fortune when he came home to visit after his discharge from the army. His father wanted him to help paint the house and Clarence climbed a ladder to do his share. Something slipped, the ladder or Clarence, and the aviator—he had seen a lot of service testing planes and instructing would-be pilots—and the ladder went tumbling to earth. The result was two broken arms.

Then there is the story of how his flying days came near being ended when he was competing in the 1925 international races at New York. His plane crashed into some telephone wires and Chamberlin was picked up with a broken leg and other injuries.

"You will never fly again," his doctor told him. "I'll show you," the patient replied.

If the flyer's father had his way, Chamberlin would never have made his trans-Atlantic flight. The father wanted his son to follow his footsteps as a jeweler. Chamberlin tried the watch repairing business when he went back to Denison after his war service. But he had other ambitions and went into commercial aviation, a field in which he has been engaged since that time.

During the war Chamberlin enlisted in the balloon service at Omaha. From there he was transferred to the aviation service at Rantoul, Ill.

He was test pilot and instructor at Kelly Field for a time and the Armistice found him at Hoboken, N. J., awaiting a ship which could take him to France.

His disgust at not reaching the war front was indicated by a card he sent to his parents. The entire message was on words—"Hell!"

Denison has two reasons for celebrating Nov. 11—Armistice day and Chamberlin's birthday. He was born there, was graduated from high school and the normal school there and after attending Iowa State College at Ames for two years, returned to Denison in 1914 to open a tire and repair shop.

Chamberlin found him in Europe once before. His mother, Mrs. E. C. Chamberlin, took him on a visit to London when he was 6 years old. The mother, returning to her birth place, visited her sister, Mrs. George Fittell.

It was early in 1923 that Chamberlin planned to fly to Europe, according to his father.

"He said he was going to fly across the Atlantic if he had to make all the arrangements himself and fly alone," the elder Chamberlin recounted. "Clarence was only a boy when he first dreamed of being an aviator. During the Mexican border trouble he said he wished he could fly over there."

The father said after Chamberlin left New York in 1923, he built a plane for a Negro who wanted to fly to South Africa. The Negro "hopped off and that's all," Clarence wrote his father. The plane was no more than left the ground when it fell into the sea and Marine derrick had to lift the plane and the Negro out of the water.

The Chamberlins expect their boy back home "as soon as the celebrations are over."

SUITOR STABS RIVAL AT GIRL'S DOORWAY

Eugene Rayfield, Wounded Three Times, at Hospital—Pearl Lacy Exonerates Him.

Eugene Rayfield, 20 years old, of 4640 Kennerly avenue, is at City Hospital in a serious condition, suffering from stab wounds in the left chest and right arm and leg. He was wounded early this morning during a fight with Louis Turnbull of 1508 Mississippi avenue, at the home of Miss Pearl Lacy of 1428 Mississippi avenue, to whom each of the young men is reported to have been paying attention.

Miss Lacy said she had gone out with Rayfield and that Turnbull was at her home waiting for her when they returned. After several moments Turnbull departed, saying he would be back later, according to the young woman. She said she construed Turnbull's remark as a threat and that Rayfield stayed at her home until 1 a. m., when some one knocked at the front door. Rayfield opened the door and Turnbull seized him and stabbed him, according to Miss Lacy.

Turnbull was arrested in Lafayette Park soon afterward. He told police he had warned Rayfield not to go with Miss Lacy several weeks ago. When he went to Miss Lacy's home this morning, he said, Rayfield had a knife in his hand when he opened the door. Turnbull said he wrested the knife from Rayfield and that, during the struggle, Rayfield was stabbed.

according to his father. "He said he was going to fly across the Atlantic if he had to make all the arrangements himself and fly alone," the elder Chamberlin recounted. "Clarence was only a boy when he first dreamed of being an aviator. During the Mexican border trouble he said he wished he could fly over there."

The father said after Chamberlin left New York in 1923, he built a plane for a Negro who wanted to fly to South Africa. The Negro "hopped off and that's all," Clarence wrote his father. The plane was no more than left the ground when it fell into the sea and Marine derrick had to lift the plane and the Negro out of the water.

The Chamberlins expect their boy back home "as soon as the celebrations are over."

TWO MEN HELD AFTER POKER GAME ROBBERY

Police Arrest Pair in Alley After Party Is Held Up — $75 Robbery in Garage.

Over the week-end police captured three groups of men—against two of which robbery warrants will be sought, and against the third, burglary warrants.

Two men were arrested as they ran through an alley in the 4200 block of Swan avenue at 12:15 a. m. yesterday. One carried a revolver and both had handkerchiefs about their necks. They said they were Claude Smith, 4265 Vista avenue and Emerson Maness, 1402 South Vandeventer avenue. They were identified, police reported, as the men who, a few minutes before their arrest, held up a party of poker players at the home of Bud Yowell, 1219 Tower Grove avenue, slugging two players with a revolver and escaping with $32.

Smith made no statement. Maness said he had been in the poker game and had won "a few dimes," and was running because he feared he might be held up.

Two armed Negroes held up employees of the Raymond garage, 1740 Sullivan avenue at 3:10 a. m. today and escaped with $75. A policeman fired two shots at the robbers. Their automobile was found abandoned in an alley. Tracing the license number on the car, the police arrested the owner, Lu-

UNION BUSINESS AGENT CAUGHT WRECKING NON-UNION BUILDING

A. Conover of East St. Louis Bricklayers' Organization Arrested With Wife After Chase.

Ruck, who lives at 1407 St. Clair avenue, was awakened by a noise and saw a man pounding a heavy length of lumber against the concrete block wall of the new house, knocking the blocks out of place.

Ruck telephoned police. As police approached, a man ran from the new building toward an automobile parked at the curb, but the car sped away, and Conover was arrested. Shots were fired at the car, puncturing a tire and striking the top. The car was overtaken after a six blocks chase. Mrs. Conover was at the wheel.

Ruck said nonunion workmen were erecting the house. by Price, and Jack Holloway, both Negroes, at Price's home, 1025 North Compton. At 5 a. m., a Negro, concealed in the Raymond garage, ran out and escaped. Presumably he had gone there with the robbers, although not seen at the time.

Police surrounded the grocery store of Sam Swingle, 709 North Leonard avenue, at 3:15 a. m. today, after discovering a door glass broken. John Kendall, a Negro, was caught inside. Robert Reed, another Negro, was caught as he tried to run away with four 10-pound sacks of flour. A third Negro escaped, discarding his loot—beef, bacon and pork chops.

Physician Dies, Martyr To Scarlet Fever Tests

Found Asphyxiated at His Laboratory Desk
By Wife When He Fails to Return From Experiment Room.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, June 6.—Dr. Abraham Zingher, famous bacteriologist found asphyxiated before his test tubes in his office in the deserted city research laboratory, was thought by friends today to have died as a martyr to science. The test tubes and glass jars stood ready for use in an open cabinet and a sheet of fresh notes lay on a laboratory table when the scientist's body was found early yesterday by his wife. He was seated before his laboratory table, his head resting on his arms, and appeared to be dozing. Gas from a detached tube of a Bunsen burner filled the room. Dr. Zingher was seeking to perfect the Dick immunization treatment for scarlet fever when he died.

The definite cause of death remains undetermined. Dr. Thomas Gonzales, assistant medical examiner said he found no evidence of suicide. He said Dr. Zingher, who was 42 years old, had paralysis of the face and might have suffered another attack before the gas leakage occurred.

"He was so tired," declared Mrs. Zingher, in support of the theory that her husband dozed at his work, unconscious of the disconnected tube. "He worked so hard for everyone else that he was simply worn out. He was never sufficiently rested."

Mrs. Zingher first became uneasy about her husband when he failed to keep an appointment with a patient Saturday afternoon. In the evening, at her request, a physician and a watchman walked and called through the laboratory halls, but received no response. About midnight, greatly worried, she insisted on going with her aunt and uncle to her husband's office in the laboratory, where they found him dead.

Dr. Zingher left four children, the oldest 7 years and the youngest 5 weeks. Born in Rumania and educated at Cornell Medical treatment and the Schick test for diphtheria. He sought a vaccine treatment for arthritis and immunization for measles. He was professor of hygiene at New York University Medical School, professor of clinical medicine at P. H. Hospital and instructor in pediatrics at post-graduate hospital. He became supervisor of bacteriological laboratories in France during the World War.

GOVERNMENT REFUSES WARRANT FOR DRY AGENT

Assistant U. S. District Attorney Declares Evidence Insufficient to Support a Charge of Bribery. Assistant United States District Attorney Claude Crooks today refused to issue a warrant against Prohibition Agent Walter T. Christensen, winner of the D. S. C. and Croix de Guerre for his services in the war with the First Division who was arrested by police Saturday night.

Crooks said there was insufficient evidence to support the statements of Antonio L. Randazzo, of 4463 Lindell boulevard, that Christensen had demanded $230 to "fix" a bootlegging charge brought against Randazzo by Christensen last February. The prohibition agent claimed his arrest was a frameup.

Randazzo told police Christensen had asked him to come to the corner of Taylor avenue and Lindell boulevard at 8 p. m. Saturday night and asked for protection. Randazzo, however, had made an appointment to meet a woman informer on the corner and, noticing activity in the Randazzo home, went there to see what was going on.

FUGITIVE OUTLAW THOUGHT TO BE SURROUNDED BY POSSE
Matthew Kimes Escapes to Woods Near Pawhuska, Ok. When Pursued by Officers.

By the Associated Press. PAWUSKA, Ok., June 6.—Matthew Kimes, Oklahoma outlaw, was thought to be surrounded by a posse of officers in the dense timberland about four miles southeast of here today.

After a chase through the downtown district of Pawhuska, the outlaw abandoned his automobile, bullet-riddled, at the outskirts of town. Here he commandeered the car of Red Carter, cuttlemen, fleeing Carter tightly to prevent the officers from firing. Kimes forced him to speed southeast on the Hominy road. Later Carter was thrown from the car and Kimes took the wheel. When the chase became too hot, Kimes left the car and ran into the woods. He had two automatic pistols. Carter told the officers.

BRAZILIAN FLYER ENDS FLIGHT ACROSS ATLANTIC

By the Associated Press. PERNAMBUCO, Brazil, June 6.—The Brazilian trans-Atlantic plane Jahu, under command of Joao de Barros, arrived here yesterday from Porto Natal. The Jahu, which made the flight from Genoa, Italy, by way of the Cape Verde Islands and the Island of Fernando do Noronha, was eight months on the trip. Despite several delays and repeated erroneous reports that they had landed, the enthusiasm was unbounded when the flyers finally arrived.

The Jahu left Genoa last October and by stages reached Porto Praya, Nov. 12. It was then decided to abandon the flight but De Barros returned to Italy to get new parts. The plane left Porto Praya, April 23 and fell into the sea. It was picked up by a steamship. Undaunted by the many mishaps, de Barros placed it in commission again for the final flight to the Brazilian mainland.

CHIROPRACTORS OF STATE MUST TAKE RIGID EXAMINATION

New Board Orders Tests for All to Show Qualifications, Irrespective of Length of Service.

TO FULFILL PLEDGE MADE TO GOVERNOR

Examiners Tell Convention They Are Carrying Out Agreement to Rid Missouri of Charlatans.

Every chiropractor in Missouri must submit to a rigid examination as to his qualifications to practice chiropractic, irrespective of length of practice. This announcement by the newly created State Board of Chiropractic Examiners was made at the closing session today of the fourteenth annual convention of the Missouri State Chiropractors' Association at the Marquette Hotel.

The Board of Examiners, which was appointed by Gov. Baker, following passage of the chiropractic law at the recent session of the Legislature, will begin functioning next month, when the new law becomes effective, and the examinations will be held at Jefferson City. Under the law, the board is authorized to issue licenses to all practitioners, who are graduates of reputable colleges and who have been practicing for two years, but leaves it to the board's discretion whatever other, if any, qualifications are necessary.

Four of the board members—Dr. Thomas F. Maher and Dr. Louis Litch of St. Louis, Dr. R. K. Nicholson of St. Joseph and Dr. Charles E. Hendric of Jefferson City—spoke at today's session, and the fifth member, Dr. Worth W. Woody of Kansas City, who was called to Texas, wired his concurrence in the board's decision.

Tell of Pledge to Governor. The four speakers declared they had pledged the Legislators and Gov. Baker that, if given a law, they would rid the State of Charlatans, and explained that to support this pledge and protect the public of the State from incompetents, it was necessary to take drastic steps at the start and issue licenses only to those who proved themselves capable of caring for the sick. The board will receive the hearty support of the association, as a resolution to that effect was adopted at last night's session.

MAN SOUGHT AFTER KILLING WIFE AT HOME OF MOTHER. Relatives Say Thomas Henderson Shot Woman Despite Pleas of Children.

Special to the Post-Dispatch. WEST FRANKFORT, Ill., June 6.—Franklin County officers today are searching for Thomas "Scotty" Henderson following the death of his wife in a hospital last night, from gunshot wounds. According to relatives who were present, Henderson followed his wife to the home of her mother, where she had fled with her two small children, and, after kicking down the door to a room in which she had barricaded herself, shot her down. Her mother and the two children pleaded with him not to shoot.

As Mrs. Henderson fell, Henderson is said to have turned to James Wade, brother-in-law of Mrs. Henderson, who had been attracted by the cries of the woman and children, and told him, "I'll kill you if you touch her." Henderson escaped.

Henderson is said to have fired at his wife at their home earlier in the night.

TRAIN KILLS MAN RESTING ON RAILROAD RIGHT-OF-WAY. Guy Neavell, Bridge Carpenter of Sims, Ill., Run Down Near Belleville.

Guy Neavell, a bridge carpenter, was killed early yesterday when run over by a freight train as he rested on the Southern Railway tracks at Cooper Station, near Belleville. Neavell had been working with a crew erecting a railroad bridge nearby and was waiting for a freight train on which he intended returning to his home at Sims, Ill.

W. F. West, engineer of the train, testified at the inquest last night that he saw a man lying on the tracks and that he whistled. He was unable to stop the train in time to avoid striking the man, West said. A verdict of accident was returned. Neavell is survived by his wife and three children.

$2635 STOLEN FROM SAFE

Taken in Robbery of Loan Company's Branch.

A safe in a branch office of the Industrial Loan Co., 4118 West Florissant avenue, was forced last night and $2635 in currency was stolen.

After obtaining entrance to the basement of the Morgan Laundry Co., 1546 Chouteau avenue, through the coal chute, burglars opened an office safe, stealing $240.

Jailed for Non-support of Child. Luther Heck of East St. Louis today was sentenced to six months in the St. Clair County jail by County Judge Weber because he failed to contribute $18 a week to the support of his son, Edward Heck, 7 months old.

GRAND LAUNDRY SERVICE

When It Rains

Rainy days are "blue" enough without having to do your own laundry work, and at no other time is this ancient drudgery more inconvenient. And you probably find difficulty in drying the clothes and keeping them white. But our service goes on just as efficiently in rainy weather as at any other time. We have every modern facility to do all or any part of your laundry work in the most scientific and satisfactory manner. Try our Rough Dry family laundry service and see for yourself. This service is a very popular one, and well suited to the needs of the average family. It includes the washing, drying, starching, and ironing of all flat work, leaving only the lighter articles for ironing at home. And the low cost makes it more economical than a laundress or any home laundry method.

MAN GIVEN 'LIFT' IN AUTO KILLED IN CRASH

Ralph J. Meyer, 27, Fatally Injured in Accident Near Ballwin.

Begging a ride in a passing automobile cost the life of Ralph
J. Meyer, 27 years old, of 4233
North Broadway, who was killed
at 7 a. m. yesterday when the machine ran off Manchester road and overturned near Ballwin, St. Louis County.

Meyer had hailed a machine driven by John Trebilcock, 20, an electrician, of 4467 San Francisco
avenue, who, with Thomas O'Brien, 23, 4024A Maffitt avenue, was returning home from the Meramec River. Near Ballwin, Trebilcock lost control of the car and it overturned in a ditch.

Meyer suffered a fractured skull and was dead when taken from the machine. The body was removed to Kirkwood, where it remained unidentified until 4 a.
m. today, when Meyer's father, A.
J. Meyer c. the North Broadway
address, made the identification.

In Meyer's clothing was found a Toledo (O.) tailor's mark and the notation "Made for George Plummer." Meyer told county authorities his son had recently returned from Toledo. Trebilcock suffered contusions of the head and face and concussion of the brain and was taken home after treatment at St. Mary's Hospital.

O'Brien was cut and bruised. An inquest will be held today.

Fourteen persons were injured in automobile accidents in St. Louis and St. Louis County yesterday.

In three cases drivers fled and in a fourth instance a fleeing driver was overtaken by a policeman several blocks from the scene.

Driver Who Crashed Into Brewery, Charged With Drunkenness.
George Tedd, 24 years old, a stationary fireman, of 68 St. Clair avenue, East St. Louis, was charged with careless driving and driving when intoxicated after his Ford coupe crashed into the wall of the Hein Brewery, Tenth and State streets, East St. Louis, yesterday morning. Tedd, who escaped with minor injuries, said he was returning home from a party. In the rear of his machine police found eight cans of a popular brand of malt used in making home brew.

NEGRO CONFESSES KILLING OF TWO WOMEN ON FARM

Prisoner Spirited Away From Jackson (Miss.) Mob; Troops Called to Keep Order.

By the Associated Press.
JACKSON, Miss., June 6.—Mystery surrounding the brutal killing of two white women at a dairy farm here last Friday had been solved today through the confession of a Negro who related the details of the crime to officers
after National Guardsmen threaded
him to safety through several mob episodes.

Walter Hurley, Jackson Negro,
said he shot and killed Mrs. O. S.
Rees and Miss Martha Rees, attacking the latter. He then ransacked
the house and fled in the Rees automobile. The crime was committed while Mr. Rees was away on his milk route. The Negro formerly had been an employee at the dairy
but had been discharged.

Arrested here Saturday night following a long search, Hurley was removed to Hattiesburg yesterday after mob demonstrations had led
Gov. Dennis Murphree to order
State troops here from Vicksburg to preserve order. The mob learned of the flight, however, and went in pursuit. At the bridge over the Pearl River a squad of the troopers dropped from an escort truck
and held the bridge against all traffic for two hours, allowing the escort to remove the prisoner from danger.

Learning at Hattiesburg that the mob had formed again at Jackson and was en route to take the Negro, the soldiers who had been guarding the Hattiesburg jail removed the prisoner to an unannounced destination. The mob was allowed to go through the jail
there but it disbanded after finding that its quarry was not in the building. The situation was reported quiet today.

50,000 SALOONS SEEK LICENSES IN CHICAGO

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
CHICAGO, June 6.—The wide-open town idea which people had come to expect as a result of the election of William Hale Thompson to the Mayor's office here, is gradually blossoming into reality. That construction is being placed on the order which has gone out from the Mayor's office to grant licenses to saloons. Officers are investigating more than 50,000 places which may receive permits to sell "near beer."
When Mayor Dever started three years ago to clamp the lid down on the open liquor business, he revoked the licenses of many such places and refused to license any new ones.

Chief of Police Michael Hughes has said that he wants the open in his department to go after real crooks and to give less attention to investigating liquor law violations.
Of late there have been hints that the gambling business need not fear too much police supervision and bookmakers have felt much easier.
Some of the cabarets which had been closed under the old order are opening again.

Ace Killed in Mid-air Crash.
Special to the Post-Dispatch.
BOURNEMOUTH, England, June
4.—W. H. Longton, Royal Air Force squadron leader and ace of the English stunt flyers, was killed today
when his airplane collided in mid-air with another machine, during a competition in a tournament.

TWO KILLED IN PLANE CRASH

Joyride Fatal to Youths at Perry, Iowa.

By the Associated Press.
PERRY, Ia., June 6.—Oscar E.
O'Connor and Joe Hanson, both of Perry, were killed last night when an airplane owned by Paul En-gles of Ponca City, Okla., and piloted by Ralph Parcut of Des Moines, crashed to the ground here.
Engles declared the two youths had asked to be taken into the air for a few stunts, and that investigation showed one of them became frightened and grabbed the

into a nose dive.

Alone in Life 36 Years, Recluse Pair Die Together

Husband, Learning Wife's Death Is Near, Arranges $50,000 Estate and Shoots Her and Himself to Death.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, June 6.—Thirty-six years ago George and Jennie Underhill moved to 754 Halsey street, Brooklyn, one of a solid row of new three-story red brick houses. They were in their late twenties and had come from Illinois to seek their fortune. George had found a wholesale merchant who was glad to employ someone who knew broom corn, and was making good.

That outlying quarter, across Broadway from Bushwick, was a friendly one. But this young couple, although they smiled and spoke when greeted, kept always themselves. They have just been married, the neighbors thought—when their honeymoon days were over, we will become better acquainted with them. But the years passed, and they were still interested in one another alone. The wife seemed rather frail. They seldom went out at night and always were home early.

Pay Off Their Mortgage.

From the beginning they had rented the two upper floors of their house, retaining the first for themselves. Gradually they paid off the mortgage and put by a tidy sum.

Some twelve years ago, when he was 50, George Underhill retired from business. They were free to enjoy life. After breakfast, they would both wash the dishes and put the house in order. Then he would read the morning paper while she sewed.

After luncheon, if the sun was bright and the air not too cold, they would go for a short walk. After the dinner table was cleared, he would read again, from the evening paper or a book. Twice a week they went to the movies.

They still greeted their neighbors pleasantly, but never visited them. Occasionally they went upstairs to call on the elderly Mrs. Mary E. Wallace and her two daughters, their tenants for seventeen years. Once, a few years ago, two nieces from Illinois came to see the Underhills for a few weeks. So George and Jennie Underhill enjoyed life. As Jennie's strength began to leave her, her strolls became less frequent and they passed more time reading and talking in their living room.

Last fall she became very ill. She could not move her legs. She was in bed for weeks. But finally she improved and was able to help him prepare the meals and wash the dishes.

Last month she had to go to bed again. Nothing the doctor could do seemed to help her. She would have no other nurse than her husband.

"I can't sleep or eat for seeing her lie down that way," he told Mrs. Wallace a few days ago. The doctor's decision.

Thursday the doctor told George that Jennie could not live many weeks. He refused to believe it at first, but her frail body was wasting away so rapidly he knew it must be so. He told her what the doctor had said.

Yesterday morning, shortly after 7 o'clock, George spread a blanket on the floor of the living room, where their favorite chairs usually were. At one end of the blanket he placed two pillows. He lifted Jennie from her bed and laid her gently on the blanket.

Then he took a revolver from the table and, kneeling down beside her, pressed it against her heart. He pulled the trigger twice. The Wallaces above heard the shots and ran downstairs.

George lay down beside Jennie and slipped his arm under her head. He pressed her close against him as he put the revolver to his head and pulled the trigger a third time.

He died as neighbors rushed in. In a neat pile on the table were four bankbooks, showing deposits of approximately $50,000 and three notes.

One note asked that A. C. Underhill, a brother of Hayti, Mo., be notified. Another instructed the Williamsburgh Savings Bank to pay bearer $500.

NEWMAN, BIRGER IN JAIL AT BENTON, RITTER IS SOUGHT

Illinois Authorities Confident of Finding Third Man Accused of Plotting Adams Murder.

TWO OF SHELTONS NOW IN WEST CITY

Prisoner Returned From California Says Officers Told Him to Flee and Knew Where He Was.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

BENTON, Ill., June 6. — With Charley Birger, Southern Illinois gang leader, and his chief lieutenant, Art Newman, in jail here, awaiting trial in a month for the murder of Mayor Joe Adams of West City, authorities are increasing their efforts to find Connie Ritter, another Birger associate, also charged with the murder.

Various tips concerning Ritter's whereabouts have been received here without result as yet. However, authorities are confident Ritter will ultimately be caught, as was Newman, who went to Long Beach, Cal., assumed an alias and obtained employment as a watchman in an oil refinery.

On the trip back from California in custody of Sheriff Pritchard, Newman arrived at Tower Grove Station, St. Louis, yesterday morning. Three deputies from Benton met the train and the journey here was made by automobile.

Arrives at Benton Jail. At 11:45 a. m. Newman, handcuffed, stepped from the automobile and walked into the jail. He was booked, searched, given a shower bath and assigned to a cell on the first floor, beneath Birger, who has been held here for about two months.

"I did not run away from Illinois as a fugitive from justice," Newman told the sheriff. "I was advised to leave for my own safety by Postoffice Inspectors and they have always known where I was. I was in Illinois with an Inspector at San Diego, May 15." He denied any part in the Adams murder.

Newman declared, in jail today, that he had not been drawn into the Birger-Shelton gang war until he and his wife were fired on in their automobile by Sheltonites, on the hard road near Birger's resort. Until then, he said, he had been friendly to both sides. He took occasion to deny that Birger either drank or used narcotics.

Several years ago, Newman disclosed, he was employed as a motorman in the Old Orient coal mine, at West Frankfort, Ill. He expressed pleasure that his wife and children were coming here.

The death penalty will be sought for Newman and Birger by State Attorney Martin. The chief State witness will be Harry Thomason, 19-year-old Birger gangster, now serving a life term for the murder. In pleading guilty to the murder, Thomason said it was planned by Birger, Newman and Ritter, and they compelled him and his brother, Elmo, now dead, to commit it.

After arrival of Newman, the jail housed, for a brief period, the three most important witnesses against the Shelton brothers—Carl, Earl and Bernie—convicted of the $15,000 Collinsville mail robbery and sentenced to Leavenworth Penitentiary, upon testimony by Birger, Newman and Harvey Duncy.

Duncy Taken to Marion. Duncy was transferred, in the afternoon, from the Benton jail to the jail at Marion.

The Sheltons, enemies of the Birger gangsters, obtained a new trial and release from prison recently when Duncy made affidavit that he had testified falsely against them, under orders from Birger and Newman.

Earl and Bernie Shelton are visiting at the home of Joe Adams, brother of the slain Mayor of West City on the outskirts of Benton. The Sheltons called on county officials and gave assurance they are not "looking for trouble."

MOTORIST ARRESTED FOR $1475 FRAUD IN AUTO INSURANCE

Hit Car, Reported It Stolen, Collected Money Then Wrecked Machine, Police Alleged.

Special to the Post-Dispatch. DIXON, Ill., June 6. — Charged with driving his own Hupmobile sedan from Dixon to Niles, Mich., placing it in storage there, then reporting that it had been stolen in Chicago on Oct. 15, 1924, and by that means collecting $1475 insurance, Elmer Zimmerman, manager of a chain meat market, is under arrest here, held to the Lee County grand jury in $2000 bonds.

It is alleged that Zimmerman confessed that after he collected the insurance he went to Niles, Mich., and took the car and drove it to South Bend, Ind., where the motor was taken apart and broken up. All marks and serial numbers were obliterated and a car abandoned near home of an old enemy of Zimmerman in the meat business.

The remains of the car were recovered by Dixon police on a tip given by a former wife of Zimmerman, who now lives at Niles, Mich.

MILITIA GUARDS SCENE OF $2,000,000 ALABAMA FIRE

Fifty-Eight Buildings Destroyed or Damaged in Montgomery's Business District.

By the Associated Press, MONTGOMERY, Ala., June 6.—While many workmen were clearing away the ruins of the most disastrous fire in the history of the city, Montgomery today was making plans to rebuild the business district which was leveled Saturday, entailing a loss of more than $2,000,000.

Fifty-eight buildings were either destroyed or suffered materially and it will be several days before a complete check of the losses is made. Flying sparks caused considerable damage to buildings several blocks away. National guardsmen were on duty and the streets around the burned area were blocked off. None of the 11 persons injured was in a serious condition.

LAST OF MISSISSIPPI FLOOD RACES TO GULF

Southern Part of Atchafalaya Still Rising, Land Emerging Further North.

By the Associated Press.

NEW ORLEANS, June 6.—The tail end of the Mississippi Valley flood was racing to the sea today through the 10-mile current of the Atchafalaya River, registering a slow rise in the southern portion of the eastern basin but generally receding in the upper reaches.

Grand Lake and other large bodies of water into which the Atchafalaya empties before emerging to find a short outlet to the Gulf of Mexico have taken up great volumes of the flood water by serving as temporary reservoirs.

The rise in the southern portion of the Atchafalaya basin has been at a rate of from two-tenths to three-tenths of a foot in each 24 hours, while at Morgan City on the main river the gauge has been virtually at a standstill for several days.

Feeding of hundreds of persons who took to houseboats or made themselves comfortable in upper floors of dwellings continues in the flooded basin to the south, while in the north portions, ridges of land steadily emerge from the muddy waters.

No further rises are expected as a result of the new flood coming down the Mississippi, although inundation of a wide countryside will be prolonged.

County Health Units. Formation of county health units was tentatively agreed upon at a conference of Federal and State health authorities with medical officials of the Red Cross.

The movement also has for its objective the establishment of permanent health bodies in every county of the seven states affected by the flood.

As a basis for financing the county units, it was agreed that the county should be called upon for 50 per cent of the necessary appropriation and the State 25 per cent, while the remaining 25 per cent might be provided by the United States Public Health Service and the Rockefeller Foundation.

The minimum cost of conducting a county health unit was said to be $10,000 per year, with an additional $1000 required in some counties for larger personnel and supplies.

Rivers in Arkansas Rising; Some Land Already Flooded. By the Associated Press. LITTLE ROCK, Ark., June 6.—Swollen by heavy rains of the last few days, rivers in Arkansas are threatening to sweep out of their banks and inundate many acres of farm lands which were submerged by the recent flood.

The most serious damage is threatened by the White and Black rivers but the Mississippi likewise is causing concern. Water was reported surging through the break in the Mississippi levee at Knowlton's Landing. The White River is overflowing land near Desarc.

At Forrest City, it was reported today the St. Francis River was at flood stage and at places was overflowing farm land.

MISSISSIPPI RIVER IN FLOOD AGAIN FROM MISSOURI TO GULF

Rising Water Stopped Operation of Trains on Levee Tracks Here at 5 a. m.

Repeating on a smaller scale its performance of last April the Mississippi River today is in flood from Northern Missouri to the Gulf of Mexico. While it will continue to rise slowly for a short time in the Missouri section, it will not go much higher, and only lowlands, which not infrequently are inundated, are under water.

The stream is above flood level again at Cairo, Ill., and Memphis, Tenn., after having dropped considerably from the marks of the recent great flood. Farther south, to New Orleans, the stages are about what they have been for some time.

At St. Louis the river has risen to 32 feet at 7 o'clock this morning, two feet above flood stage, and the Weather Bureau predicted it would reach 32.6 tomorrow morning and 33 Wednesday. The crest of the great spring flood here was 36.1 on April 26. Operation of Terminal, Wabash and Missouri Pacific freight trains on the levee tracks here ceased at 5 o'clock this morning, when the rising water interfered. The levee downtown is covered with water, and steamboats have moved up near the elevated railroad structure.

The lower Missouri River is high, with 27.5 feet at St. Charles (2.2 above flood level) and 27.6 predicted for tomorrow night. The swollen Meramec, Osage, Black and Grand rivers are falling and the flood situation in the Illinois River has changed little.

WOMAN KILLS SELF WITH GAS

Mrs. Ada Grisham Found Dead by Son on Return Home.

When Mr. and Mrs. Rolla L. Grisham, of 4267A Manchester avenue, returned to their home from a fishing trip late yesterday, they found Grisham's mother, Mrs. Ada Grisham, lying on the kitchen floor with several burners of a gas stove turned on. They took her to City Hospital where she was pronounced dead.

Mrs. Grisham left a note to her son, in which she said she had been unhappy and that she had been suffering.

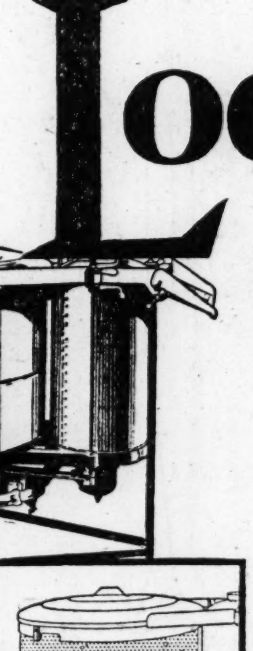

New Arkansas Game Law. SALEM, Ark., June 5.—Arkansas squirrel hunters may shoot 15 squirrels a day until June 15, but after that date will be permitted to kill but eight a day. The new Arkansas game law goes into effect during the "short" squirrel season, which closes June 15. The longer season begins Oct. 1, and continues until the close of the year. The sale of squirrels is prohibited.

WASHING HINTS

Rinsing Clothes

It is important to give your clothes their first rinse in water as near the temperature of the wash water as possible. Thus white clothes which are washed in hot water, properly should have their first rinse in hot water. There is a scientific reason for this: When soap and the wash water come in contact with the grease and dirt in the clothes, both soap and dirt are changed chemically into a sort of emulsion which is easily carried out by hot water but which curdles and hardens in cold water.

After the soap is completely dissolved by the first rinse, the others may be cool or cold, to suit the preference of the individual. The number of rinses should be governed by how hard or easy it is to get all the soap out of the clothes. For white clothes the following procedure is recommended: At least one hot rinse. Then one lukewarm rinse. Finally one bluing or cold rinse.

Those fortunate persons who own an EASY Washer never hesitate to give their clothes a needed extra rinse, for with the EASY it is no trouble at all to handle the clothes. The EASY'S drying tub extracts the wash and rinsing waters quickly and effortlessly, doing away with all wringing and twisting the handling. Clothes come from the EASY'S drying tub ready for the line—or, in the case of sheer pieces, ready for ironing.

BARES FIXIN
OF MATCHES
IN CHICAGO

Finally Broke With Trust, He Asserts, At His Second Match With the "Strangler."

By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, June 6.—Will Demetral, a professional wrestler for 20 years, testified today that he was forced to put up $5000 as a quit claim to his brother-in-law, Ed. White, who was in Chicago as a guarantee that he would not leave the state. Demetral, then world's champion, decided to leave Cleveland within the last year. Demetral's startling revelation was made at the resumption of a legislative inquiry into the Illinois State Athletic Commission and its boxing situation in Chicago. Demetral testified that he was a member of the ring in control of wrestling, that he engaged in matches, but finally broke with the ring after his second match with Lewis.

One Wrestler Too Tough.
Demetral told the legislators that he was at one time manager of John Evko, a heavyweight challenger, but that he was unable to get any matches because his prize was considered too "tough." He said that promoters in Chicago brought in Mike Roman and other "stiffs" to wrestle Lewis, instead of using Evko. The legislators did not know what a "stiff" was and Demetral gave this explanation: "They pick up some bum on a farm and show him a few holds—that's a stiff. No good at all."

Demetral related his dealings with Ed. White of Chicago who he said, was acting for Billy Sandow, owner of Kansas City, manager of Lewis. He said that White said to him if he was going to "work with us," or independently. After failing to get any matches for Evko, Demetral said he joined White and Sandow, working in small matches. After demanding a championship match with Lewis, and getting promoters in Cleveland to stage it, Demetral said that White told him that Sandow did not trust him and that he would have to put up money as a guarantee that he would not attempt to defeat Lewis. He said he gave White his diamond ring and diamond stud and $2500 in cash, making $2000 in all, as evidence of good faith that he would do as he was told. The match resulted in a one-hour draw.

After the first Cleveland match Demetral attempted to get a return bout. Three days before the match, White called him and told him he wanted to see him on important news. "I got bad news for you. The match in Cleveland is off. Billy Sandow has set some other date, White told me," Demetral said.

After arguing with White, Demetral said he presented him with a quit-claim deed to his home and three lots valued at $15,000 to $25,000. The match went 90 minutes, with Lewis getting one fall. He said he broke with White after that. He said he got between $300 and $400 as his share of the match. Demetral was requested to bring in the quit-claim deed at the resumption of the hearing this afternoon.

BROWNS' MORALE IMPROVES AS PITCHERS SHOW STRENGTH

ZACHARY HURLS HOWLEYMEN TO THIRD VICTORY

Veteran Stops Senators, While Mates Pummel Braxton and Murray — Gaston to Pitch Tomorrow.

Special to the Post-Dispatch. BALTIMORE, Md., June 6.—Dad Howley, manager of the St. Louis Browns, is cheerful over the prospects for the immediate future of his team because of the improvement shown by his pitchers in the last three games against Washington, the final contest being played Sunday and won by the St. Louis Americans, 9 to 1.

Howley, who was in the doldrums when his team hiked East for a swing along the Atlantic seaboard, but is inclined to be optimistic over the results of the remainder of the tour in these parts, to be resumed against the Athletics in Philadelphia tomorrow. Milton Gaston will probably pitch.

After losing the opener in the Capital, when Gaston and Winograd were pummeled, the Mound City chieftain was gratified to receive clever chucking from Walter Stewart, Elana Vangilder and Tom Zachary on successive afternoons. Vangilder really deserved a shout-out victory for his efforts Saturday and Zachary's performance yesterday was as impressive. The fact that he was scored on all was due to a scratchy infield safety by Speaker following a triple by Goslin in the sixth, the only run in which the Senators obtained more than one blow.

The Browns played snappy and errorless ball behind the veteran southpaw and they hammered the horseshoe in most approved style. Off the offerings of Braxton and Murray they collected no fewer than 16 safeties for a total of 22 bases.

Every athlete in the Browns array except Slater and Schang broke into the hit column. O'Rourke was the leader on attack with four bingles and was closely followed by Adams, Miller and Schulte who got three apiece. All of Schulte's were doubles.

Fred's first two banger was wasted, but his second, following one by Miller in round four accounted for the Browns' initial tally. Gerber, O'Rourke, Adams and Miller collaborated with singles to score three runs in the fifth, and Zachary, O'Rourke, and Adams contributed hits following a pass to Gerber for two runs in the sixth.

Manager Harris sent new men into the game with the start of the seventh including Pitcher Murray. But the Howleys chalked up a tally in the frame when Bluege made a brace of errors on Gerber's offerings, following Miller's single and a pass to Schulte, and they rang the bell twice again in the ninth on a triple by Harry Rice, Schulte's double and a fumble by Rigley.

WRAY'S COLUMN

What Makes It Sport.

THE running of the Fairmount Derby reminds one forcibly that while mathematical form in general holds true in horse racing, individual instances are subject as much to chance as to calculation.

At Fairmount the horse which figured to win and which was supported at odds—on prices for the red-faced, failed while a despised outsider won the rich prize. Even the mathematics by which Osmond figured a length or two better than Whiskery did not hold good. Whiskery beat Osmond and Buddy Bauer walked over both.

In ordinary selling races the public would murmur at such a race. The red-faced and indignant losers might climb up on the iron fence and exhort the judges in uncompromising terms. Measured by ordinary standards, it was the biggest form upset of the year, probably. Yet the public took it calmly and rationally. The bettors figured that the owners were honest and the race run on its merits, despite the form upset.

Cheaters the Exception.

WHY should the public not accept the entire racing year with its ups and downs in the same spirit? Reversals are likely to happen in stake races, as well as in selling races. Only about 37 per cent of the favorites win and only 50 per cent of the odds—on choices come home first.

The popular suspicion of racing as a whole is unjustified. There are crooked owners, crooked horses and crooked jockeys. There are also crooked bank presidents, crooked cashiers and defaulting tellers. In neither case is the entire structure to be blamed for the black sheep. The owners of horses in a claiming race are just as much entitled to be considered as running on the square as the owners of stake horses. Turf surprises are what make the betting on horses possible. There would be no horseracing, if contests could be figured mathematically and accurately.

Ghouls of the Game.

TOUTS and tipsters and advertisements reeking of crooked suggestion have done more to give racing a black name than anything that happens on race courses.

While touts are not so numerous nor so bold as in the days of the bookmaking betting ring, the old lure of "have you got a lead pencil" is still heard in any betting ring. Following this introductory usually comes the revelation of the "fixed race," with the winner already "in." The sucker puts up his money. The tout, of course, having told the same story to some other victim about each horse in the race, is bound to win. But the victims roar.

The Phony Handicaps.

WORSE still is the tipster whose handbills meet you on your way home from the track. The red-faced and indignant press that they ink up the hands of him who handles them, tell how L. Bark or some other parasite "picked five out of seven winners and had one run second," naming each winner in bold type.

These handbills are printed near the track and are all made up in advance, except for the insertion of the winners' names—the names of the leaders in the first six races.

The seventh race selection is also named but usually is wrong. That's because time does not permit the tout to wait for the results of the final race, if he is to rush his bills to the gate before the crowd drifts away from the track.

At the bottom of the handbill the reader is invariably advised to "be sure and get the sure thing 20-to-1 shot which will be 'put over' next day."

Costly "Transaction."

WISDOM still are the advertisements, countless numbers of them, published in racing journals advertising "transactions" in wording that reeks of cheating suggestion. The tout here is supposed to have laid his plot and waited until "conditions" were just right. He is at last able to announce to his clients that everything is "fixed for the horse to go over."

The information costs the victim from $25 to $100 per horse, according to the tout's effrontery. These ghouls, camp followers in the wake of every racing army, hurt the good name of racing more than anything that could possibly happen on the track.

Special to the Post-Dispatch. MEMPHIS, Tenn., June 6.—Playing with renewed energy and in their finest form of the year, the Memphis Hunt and Polo Club four turned on the St. Louis Country Club and defeated them 4 goals to 2 yesterday to even the series of two games. The Memphians completely atoned for the 9 to 3 defeat suffered Saturday.

Captain Burr Chapman shifted his Memphis lineup considerably, then proceeded to set them such an example that they just couldn't help winning. Chapman played all over the field. He saved his team from being scored on numerous occasions. He carried the ball well and passed it to his forwards and he scored one goal himself on a magnificent fore hand shot that carried all of 60 yards.

"The life of an actress is one of nerve-strain. If she sings, also, her worries are doubled. Her audiences reflect her moods. If she is mentally tired, she cannot help but convey her fatigue to those out in front and the result is a form of ennui on both sides of the footlights. I have found a sure cure for such fatigue, on the part of the player, is a good cigarette. For years I have smoked Lucky Strikes and the mental balm and real enjoyment I have derived from them have helped me marvelously. In addition they have protected my voice. I use no other brand."

 an auspicious opening before a crowd of 15,000 persons at Eb-betts Field in Brooklyn yesterday.
 The conditions did not affect the visitors seriously and they came through with a well earned victory over the picked team of the New York State Football Association with a score of 6 goals to 4.
 Although the home team opened the scoring the Maccabees were leading at half time by 4-2.
 Taking a new lease on life, after ends had been changed, the New Yorkers came back strong and,

 thanks to the strenuous efforts of center forward Crilly of the Hispano football club, evened up the score.
 In the latter part of the second period, the Maccabees had much
 the better of it, scoring twice, thereby clinching the victory. The scoring honors on the Maccabee side went to Joe Lazio, who counted the first three goals in succession. Stern shot the fourth and sixth goals for the all-Jewish team
 and Julius Skaltizer the fifth.

Five cup races are scheduled to be run this week at the Madison Kennel Club. They are as follows:
 Tuesday—Missouri Hotel trophy.
 Wednesday—Wabash Railway Clerks. Thursday—Chicago & Alton night. Friday—Dick Richards marathon race. Saturday—Globe-Democrat stake.
 The trophy for the marathon
 event, seven-sixteenths of a mile,
 will be given by D. P. Richards of St. Louis. This event will give some of the sturdiest performers
 a chance to win a purse. Such dis-

 Chance, Flossie Mac, Wang Wang
 Blues, Honeymoon Hawke and A.
 V. Beauty are eligible.

The Saturday night race will be at three-eighths of a mile. Two five-sixteenths of a mile elimination races will precede it, the first Monday night and the second Tuesday. The first four greyhounds in these races will make up the field for the final. A special silver trophy is being made for the winner.
 Tonight the feature is the eighth race in which a bunch of fast pups will clash. Hardmore, Sword Buckle, Rough Rascal, Quo Vadis and Happy Sweep are closely matched and will make an interesting contest.

The Ramona Park greyhound race track in St. Louis County will reopen tonight. In repairing the break which caused a cancellation of racing since last Wednesday night, extra precautions have been taken to insure against interruption in the future.
 The program includes eight races
 with the fifth scheduled as the feature event. This will be for three-eighths mile and the class of dogs entered promise to make it a real thriller. These include He Might II, holder of the threeeighths mile record; Whirl, who has equaled the three-sixteenths
 mile record in a schooling race;
 Judge Albrecht, Rabbit Run, Cappawhite, Mad Mond, Commercial Traveler and Buggawn, representing the famous Nevada (Mo.) Kennels.
 The first race is scheduled to start at 8:15 o'clock. The park is reached by trolley over the Kirkwood-Ferguson line or by auto over either the St. Charles or Natural Bridge roads to Carson road and thence north to the park entrance.

 Chief Tierney, played heavily by the form fans, proved a big disappointment in the fourth race at a mile and a quarter, slipping from second back to fourth after a mile and finishing last by a number of lengths.
 Grass Maid, picked by the track
 handicapper, got away fourth,
 passed up Chief Tierney and Tick Tock at the three-quarter pole and in a thrilling stretch battle, swept alongside Stars and Stripes at the wire to win by a thin whisker.
 Stars and Stripes led throughout the mile and a quarter, except the last couple of yards. Tick Tock was third.

LACOSTE DEFEATS TILDEN IN FIVE SETS IN NET FINAL

American Is Within One Point of Victory When Game Collapses

Big Bill Rises to Heights Only for Brief Spells in St. Cloud Championship Match—Guilty of Many Errors Throughout Contest.

By Herbert L. Bourke.

PARIS, June 5.—The tennis vengeance mission of "Big Bill" Tilden carried to within a single point of complete success yesterday afternoon and then flopped to a heart-breaking failure. In the final match of the French national championship at St. Cloud, with the match squared at two sets all, the tall Philadelphia carried on against Rene Lacoste into a lead of 3-8 in games and 40-15 points—one slim counter away from victory—when his game collapsed and the careful, canny, courageous Frenchman pulled up to 9-all and then ran off the next two games for the set and match. The final scores were 6-4, 4-6, 5-7, 6-3, 11-9.

It was a vastly different Tilden than the Tilden of Friday—the Tilden who mowed down Henri Cochet the defending champion, in straight sets, Tilden rose to Friday's heights only for brief spells, and between those spells he delivered the most erratic play, tossing away several service games with double faults, losing others through the netting and outing of seemingly easy returns and in still others appearing wholly unable to cope with the steady, sturdy base line game of his plenary rival.

Lacoste Wins First Set. Indication of what was to come developed in the opening game of the first set. In that the American, having service, twice double faulted to lose the initial test at urtic, and it was through similar faulty delivery that he gave his French adversary the final points of the long and exciting match.

As a result of those initial double faults Lacoste was able to win the first set. Then a dazzling Tilden, charged to square the match by taking the second session of play and went into a 2-1 lead through capturing the third set. Again came a Tilden aturic, which sad-visaged Rene was quick to take advantage and square the match at two sets-all. A brilliant Tilden once more showed himself in the final session of play to carry on to point match and turn with a confident smile to his well-wishers in the gallery—a smile which said, "The match is mine; my vengeance is complete." And again, the awful error making and the relentless adversary seizing avidly upon opportunities to force such errors and the smile of victory left the American's face and the match slipped from his grasp.

Tilden Ruled Favorite. There was an immense crowd besieging the St. Cloud arena for this climatic contest. It gave interested attention to the final match in the women's singles, which saw Miss Kean Bouman of Holland vanquish Mrs. Peacock of South Africa, 6-2, 6-4, for a title which until this year had been regarded as exclusively the property of Miss Suzanne Lenglen, but it awaited with ill-disguised enthusiasm the time for

Two Double Faults and Two Netted Drives Lose First Game for Tilden

The match opened most disappointingly for the hundreds of Americans who had gained admission to the enclosure, for Tilden, with two double faults and two netted drives, lost his service game at love. He picked brilliantly in the second game, however, and employing a sliced drive, which Lacoste found difficult to handle, leveled the match by breaking Rene at love. Service won for Tilden in the third game and for Lacoste in the fourth, while a fine mixture of spinning drives won the fifth game for the American and immediately thereafter the American onlookers were given reason for wild applause when Tilden broke through Lacoste in the sixth game to lead at 4-2.

During that session of play, however, the Frenchman disclosed the tactics by which he planned to vanquish his adversary. He began a deep driving game, first to one corner and then to the other of Tilden's court and by this means kept the American constantly on the run. The soundness of his theory was disclosed immediately thereafter, for, with Tilden coming back fatigued, Lacoste began chopping and cutting the ball and increasing the pace of his drives. By this means Rene broke Tilden in the seventh game, then won his service in the eighth, and then by a concentration upon Tilden's backhand, which Lacoste believed to be his most errorful, the Frenchman ran off the ninth and tenth games and took the set.

Play Baseline Game. Both contestants softened their striking during the second session, and remained entrenched behind their respective baselines and the set carried on to two-all before there came a service break. Tilden was the man scoring when, through brilliant generalship, he maneuvered for openings and sent home scoring shots when those openings occurred. With that lead "Big Bill" continuing similar tactics, continued to win the set at 6-4. Tilden remained in deep court during the third session of play but in the third game his service was broken when his racket unluckily touched the net as

Muhr An American Called Foot-Faults Against Big Bill

By the Associated Press. ST. CLOUD, June 6.—The Lacoste-Tilden match was a battle worthy of the tennis giants it brought together and it was won through strength of nerves as much as strength of muscle. A squabble among spectators over the right to a particular seat, a dirigible passing overhead—such things as these drew Tilden's attention from his game at important moments, while his French opponent played steadier, less temperamental tennis to win a gallant up-hill fight.

Tilden's taut nerves showed in repeated arguments with an American judge, Alan Muhr, who lives in France and is prominent in that country's athletics. Strangely enough, the first foot-fault ever called in International hard courts play was called by Muhr, an American, and against Tilden, an American, at each time controversy ensued.

After he had been warned three times against stepping over the line, Tilden in the crucial fifth set with Lacoste leading 5-4, asked Muhr to watch his serve closely. Then with a whirlwind sweep of his racket, the American sent over four service aces so fast the spectators gasped.

Tilden and Lacoste to take the courts. The American, who had whipped Rene in straight sets in the recent Franco-American match tournament, who had slaughtered Jean Borotra in the same tourney, and who had administered a third successive straight-set defeat to Cochet on Friday, was a strong favorite in the wagering, but there were those who opined the steady-stroking Lacoste would prove his master, and there was no doubt that the French portion of the gallery was strongly behind its standard bearer.

he made the shot which would have won. Thereafter there ensued some of the most protracted rallies ever to figure the French championship play. One of these continued for 61 strokes before the point fell, another of 50 strokes and a third of 32. It was during the course of these rallies that Lacoste's knee began bothering him and as the set wore on to five-all the knee trouble became more and more in evidence and contributed to Tilden's triumph in the eleventh and twelfth games, which gave him the set at 7-5 and a lead of two sets to one.

The 10-minute rest period was welcomed by both contestants and devoted by Lacoste to the treatment of his injury—a treatment which seemed effective when he reported for the fourth set.

Tilden Takes Lead. Tilden, continuing his careful driving—making no unduly strenuous or spectacular effort—was away to a two-love lead in that session and an American triumph was the expectation of almost every member of the gallery. But Lacoste opened a forcing attack in the third game and won the fourth on service to square the set at two-all. Then, with his lead wiped out, Tilden fell into errorful ways. He lost one point on a foot fault, then three more shots to lose on service in the fifth game but Lacoste was no better when he delivered and on a return break the set was squared at three-all.

Instead of heartening Tilden that happening made his play all the more ragged and with double faults and netted drives he presented Rene the seventh game, and once again in the lead the Frenchman outstayed the over-anxious American to win the set at 6-2 and square the match at two sets all.

It was by no means the lion-hearted, fighting "Big Bill" we are accustomed to see, who toed the base line at the opening of the final session of play. He won the first game but not in an impressive manner, and it was clear to the gallery, that he must regain his accuracy of stroke, his confidence of

U. S. LEADS WORLD
IN AIR, DECLARES
TRUBEE DAVISONAssistant Secretary of War,
at St. Joseph, Mo., Points to Feats of Lindbergh and Chamberlin.PASSENGER PLANES
TO EUROPE POSSIBLEOpinion Voiced at Commercial Aviation Conference
Sponsored by Aeronautic Association.By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., June 6.—Transatlantic air line passenger travel is the prophecy to be read in the transatlantic achievements of Chamberlin and Lindbergh, according to Charles A. Lindbergh, assistant secretary of war, here today
at a conference on commercial aviation.

Mr. Lindbergh, president of the National Aeronautic Association,
which has 75 active chapters,
predicted a transatlantic plane
service for pleasure and business passengers within the next five years on learning of Chamberlin's achievement.

Mr. Trubee Davison, Assistant Secretary of War, declared that the flyers would follow the precedent set by Chamberlin in carrying a passenger and that air travel between Europe and the United States soon would be an established routine. Davison also said in the Chamberlin and Lindbergh flights indisputable
proof of American air supremacy.
"Within a fortnight," Davison said, "two American pilots, two American-made planes and one American passenger have hopped
the Atlantic on the most spectacular non-stop flights in all air history. Lindbergh was the first man to fly from New York to Paris and Chamberlin was the first pilot to take a passenger from New York to Europe. Do the American people want any further proof that American pilots are the best in the world?"

Mr. Davison and Adams arrived in St. Joseph yesterday afternoon in a two-engine Fokker monoplane, which they flew down with stops for fuel,
from the Pacific Coast. They were accompanied by Peter J. Brady, president of the Federation Bank of New York, H. J. Adamson, assistant to Davison; Capt. R. G. Erbert, Roy Hoey, mechanic, and Lieut. L. J. Maitland, the pilot who accompanied Chamberlin to San Francisco at Salt Lake City, Nebraska, and North Platte, Neb., before reaching St. Joseph.

It is the plan of the National Aeronautic Association, through this conference, to effect a working organization for the immediate development of American airways
and for the construction and improvement of municipally owned air fields, "so that every section of the country may enjoy the advantage of airplane transportation for mail express and passenger traffic already established in Germany, Italy, France and England."

St. Joseph Chapter Largest.
The meeting was called in St.
Joseph, according to Adams, because the largest chapter of the association is here. The construction of St. Joseph's ultra modern municipally owned flying field, on the banks of the river, was due largely to the efforts of this chapter.

Among other speakers at the conference were William F. Macdonald Jr., Assistant Secretary of Commerce for Aeronautics; Edward P. Warner, Assistant Secretary of the Navy for Aeronautics;
James W. Lewis, advisory engineer to the Department of Research for the National Aeronautics Association; and Congressman
Charles L. Faust of the Fourth
Missouri District, and others.

Mr. Warner, in his speech, declared that in an emergency, dependence upon the airplane is more a verile and modern aircraft than any other. He declared in his speech that the airplane is the future of the world. He declared that the airplane is the future of the world.

Mr. Davison said that under a five-year army air corps development program, the United States would have 1,500 service planes, 1,500
combat aircraft and 15,000 enlisted men.

WHAT THE MILITARY MEN
SAY OF CHAMBERLIN'S FLIGHTIt Should Open Eyes of Public to Need of Air Defense Says Admiral Moffett—Patrick Praises Heroism of Flyer.

WASHINGTON, June 6.—Stressing the importance of the Chamberlin flight to Germany in a military sense, Rear Admiral Moffett,
chief of the Navy Air Corps, said
today:

"By carrying a passenger from New York to Europe, Chamberlin
has proved that a useful load, either commercial or military, can be carried across the Atlantic by air, plane, and that the Atlantic is no longer the complete barrier it was supposed to be. His achievement should open the eyes of the public to the necessity for adequate air defense and increased confidence in the practicability of commercial
aviation."

Major-General Mason M. Patrick,
chief of the Army Air Corps, said
the flight would prove very gratifying to the army of the air.

Declared Heroic Endeavor.
"It is a splendid tribute to those who designed and built both the plane and the engine," he said, "and the thought that more Americans were willing to risk their lives in the advancement of aviation naturally will be received as a fine and heroic thing."

He added that the longer distance covered by the Columbia than by Capt. Lindbergh emphasized how the air is being conquered
and predicted that the future will bring additional valuable tests and accomplishments, to demonstrate how man can make the aerial method of transportation feasible every way.

The Columbia carried the first mail between New York and Germany from Carl F. Schory, secretary of the National Aeronautic Association.
"By the first air mail between New York and Germany, the National Aeronautic Association of the U.

S. A. sends greetings to the Aero Club of Germany. May this message carried by the pilot, Clarence D. Chamberlin, flying the Bellanca monoplane, further demonstrate to the world the practicability and utility of modern aircraft destined to meet the time-saving transportation requirement of world commerce."

The flight of Chamberlin was characterized by Secretary Wilbur
as a "new demonstration not only of the skill of American pilots, but of the reliability of our engines and planes."

A first essential of the plans to be used in commercial transatlantic flights, Bellanca asserted,
will be that they fly in perfect balance and full load using less than 50 per cent of the total horsepower of the three motors.

"The endurance of the pilot cannot be questioned," Bellanca said,
in speaking of the flight of the Columbia. He flew under all kinds of weather, much of which was adverse and he ought to be commended. I am highly pleased at his great work."

"Now is America's great opportunity with its great resources, its immense coast line, and its financial and industrial facilities, to become a leader of all the aviation movement."

COMPENSATION BODY SETTLES
30,000 CLAIMS OF WORKERSRecord of State Board in Six Months Establishes National Mark, Chairman Says.

Employers, insurance companies and employees are co-operating to make the operation of Missouri's
new workmen's compensation law successful, Alroy S. Phillips, chairman of the Compensation Commission, told St. Louis Typographical Union No. 8, yesterday. The union met at 2225 Pine boulevard
for installation of officers.

The building trades, which had opposed workmen's compensation,
now are among its most active supporters, Phillips declared. He said the commission had established a national record in having settled more than 30,000 claims in its six months of existence, while only 20 cases were taken to court
instead of to the commission.

The other members of the commission made short addresses. R.
T. Wood, president of the Missouri Federation of Labor, praised their work.

JUGO-SLAVIA BREAKS OFF
RELATIONS WITH ALBANIARupture Follows Failure of Tirana
Government to Free Belgrade
Embassy, Attache.

By the Associated Press.
BELGRADE, June 6.—Jugo-Slavia, June 6.—Diplomatic relations with Albania have been broken, it is learned from a most reliable source.

The Yugoslav Charge d'Affaires,
it is learned, with the entire legation staff, left Tirana Saturday night for Durazzo, by way of Spalato.

The break, it is reported, was due to the failure of the Albanian Government to accept conditions
set forth by Jugo-Slavia demanding the release of an attaché in Tirana, of the Jugo-Slav legation,
who was arrested by the Albanian authorities.

TROTSKY'S OUSTER DEMANDED

By the Associated Press.

MOSCOW, June 6.—The recent criticism by Leon Trotsky and Gregory Zinoviev of the communist policies, particularly in China, has resulted in a new demand by the Moscow Communist executive committee for the expulsion of both of them from the central committee of the All-Russian communist party.

Five Executed for Espionage.
ODESSA, Ukraine, June 6.—Five men were executed and three sentenced to imprisonment for ten years on charges of espionage in behalf of Rumania. The prosecution declared the men were members of a monarchist organization.

The passengers include: Maj. Rufus Putnam, Western Society of Engineers; Ray Ireland, traffic manager for the National Air Transport, Inc.; E. S. Buckmaster,
assistant manager for the Chicago
Wolfe, secretary of the Aviation Committee of Commerce, and C. H. Warner, manager for the Standard Oil

FRIEND OF QUEEN MARIE FORMS RUMANIAN CABINETGroup Succeeds Averescu Ministry, Which Quit Because King Desired Change.

By the Associated Press.
BUCHAREST, June 6.—Prince Barbu Stirbey, administrator of the Royal Domains, formed a tentative National Union Cabinet today to succeed the Averescu Ministry, which resigned yesterday.

This new ministry, while still in skeleton form, has been described as a "symptom of real progress toward rehabilitation of the country."

Well informed political quarters commented on the fall of Premier Averescu with a widespread feeling of relief. The newspaper Dinunea said: "There is satisfaction from the Sovereign to the last citizen." Other newspapers described the resignation as that of a man credited with "aspiring to a dictatorship."

The resignation of Averescu was not unexpected, for a week ago King Ferdinand signified a desire for a National Union Ministry. A few days ago the Premier tendered his resignation, but the King gave him an opportunity to form a National Union Ministry.
Falling in this he again surrendered power, and the monarch
then called Prince Stirbey, a trusted friend of Queen Marie,
and requested him to form a cabinet.

Liberty of Press Promised.
The new ministry was completed
when Juliu Maniu, leader of the National Peasants' party, gave it his support. Mihai Popovici, renamed minister of finance, Gregory Junia minister of labor and Pan
Halipa minister of public works.
The National Peasants' party received the under-secretaryship of communications.

Premier Stirbey has announced that the new Government will be conducted along strictly legal lines.
Full liberty of the press is to be established and removal of officials of the Averescu regime is promised. Parliament is to be dissolved by royal decree and new elections ordered for July 7 in which balloting is to be unham-pered.

DEMAND MADE ON MEXICO

U. S. Embassy Calls for the Arrest of Mayor of American.

By the Associated Press.
MEXICO CITY, June 6.—The U. S. Embassy today sent a note to the Mexican Foreign Office making representations concerning the murder last week at Guadalupe of Arthur Brewer, former Harvard football star, requesting that the Mexican Government arrest and punish the guilty.

The Embassy's action was taken upon receiving in this morning's mail its first direct report from the United States Consul at Guadalajara. This report said that Diaz, a Mexican, who had been driving a car, was shot and killed. Press dispatches to Mexico demanded a large sum of money which was refused. Diaz
then drew a pistol and shot Brewer through the body. Brewer died the next day, the report said, and Diaz escaped. Press dispatches to Mexico City newspapers have reported that Diaz was captured and was being held by the police for trial.

PEKIN REPORTS
ANTI-COMMUNIST
ALLIANCE NEARChiang Kai-shek, Chang Tso-lin and Governor of Shansi Said to Plan Union Against Cantonese.EVACUATION OF CAPITAL DENIEDDispatches From Northern Center Contradict Those From the Hankow (Red) Headquarters.

By the Associated Press.

PEKIN, June 6.—Sweeping
peace proposals seeking a combination of Marshal Chang Tso-lin, Northern Generalissimo, Gen. Chiang Kai-shek, generalissimo of the Nanking (moderate) Nationalists
and Gen. Yen Hsi-shan, Governor of Shensi province, against the radical Nationalist regime at Hankow were officially announced today by the Ankuochun, or Northern Alliance.

A spokesman for the alliance,
who declared that the Hankow Nationalist leaders were the only communists in China, declared that Chang Tso-lin was not opposed to the Kuomintang (Nationalist political organization) or the principles of the late Dr. Sun Yat-sen, the Chinese republican leader, but was using these very principles as a basis for the proposed combination.

A Strategic Withdrawal.

It was emphatically stated that the Manchurians had not been defeated, but that on the contrary reserves were pouring southward from Manchuria.

"We are not begging for peace,
but believe that the country is tired
of conflict," said a spokesman.
"Chang Tso-lin only quarrel is against the Communists and he now believes that Chiang Kai-shek represents the real Kuomintang."

The Northern Alliance was considering continuing its withdrawal of troops north of the Yellow River, establishing a new military headquarters at a Peking in the province of Chihli, 75 miles south of Peking, the spokesman said, and the withdrawal of the Shantung
and Manchurian troops to Tsang-chow, 60 miles south of Tientsin. A third defense line, however, would be maintained on the north bank of the Yellow River. This possible withdrawal of the Northern troops,
he declared, was aimed to convince
Gen. Chiang Kai-shek and Gov.
Yen Hsi-shan that the proposals of the Northern Alliance were sincere.

Proposes to Expel Russian.
It also was declared that the Russians at Hankow, of whom Michael Bordin, adviser to the Hankow northern Government is one, will be expelled in the event of the success of the peace overtures.

It is believed by foreign observers that in the background of this apparently responsible move for peace is the determination of leading civilian Chinese Powers to establish the authority of the civil Government over the military leaders and to obtain peace and prosperity throughout China.

A denial of the Hankow report that the Northern forces were evacuating Peking was issued also.

Previous reports from Cantonese
sources have asserted that Chang Kai-shek, who broke with the Hankow (Red) Nationalists, had come to an understanding and had reunited with them.

Missionaries Appeal for Funds for Wounded Chinese.

By the Associated Press.

HANKOW, China, June 3.—(Delayed)—The Military Council of the Nationalist Government here has issued a statement that Marshal Chang Tso-lin, Manchurian war lord, was "evacuating Peking"
and that he intended to concentrate his forces at Tientsin.

The appeal asks for $100,000
Mexican, (about $46,000) in behalf of the International Independence Unit which is co-operating with Chinese associations for the relief of wounded Chinese soldiers. It said that 8000 wounded already were in Hankow, with large numbers arriving daily. Existing agencies were stated to be overwhelmed with work. Many of the residents were stated to be suffering from lack of food and shelter. It said that increased funds are needed urgently. It is set forth.

The appeal was signed by the Right Rev. Herbert L. Root, Provost of Hankow, and Bishop John Holden of Kwangsi.

HOOVER OUTLINES FLOOD RELIEF STILL REQUIREDReturn of Refugees to Homes and Their Rehabilitation Next Step—$16,000,000
Red Cross Fund Needed.

The rescue stage of Mississippi Valley flood relief work will be over within a few days, Secretary of Commerce Hoover said in a statement issued in St. Louis last evening, before his return to the recently flooded regions of Arkansas and Mississippi.

Two stages of the work which remain, he said, are support of the exiled populations and their transportation to their homes. The third is reconstruction back to self-support, the help given to be based on need, not on losses.

The number of victims of the flood, in one phase or another, will be nearer 700,000 than to the earlier estimate of 500,000, Hoover said. The rescue work has been accomplished by Federal, State and local agencies, railroads and the Red Cross, at a cost of about $5-600,000, and with the expenditure of about $750,000 from funds subscribed by the public for the Red Cross. In this rescue work, he said, an enormous loss of life has been prevented.

Three Weeks to Get Them Home.
As to the second stage of the work, Hoover said, it would be another three weeks before the return of the greater part of the exiles to their homes. This is expected to cost $8,000,000, of which about $4,500,000 will come from the Red Cross funds.

The third stage, reconstruction back to self-support, is now under way and will take many months
yet, Hoover said. "It is in large degree an agricultural question, as 90 per cent of the victims directly or indirectly depend upon agriculture. This becomes a problem of the replanting of the crop and the support of these people until harvest. Provision by the Red Cross of seed, animals, temporary shelter, temporary supplies of food,
credit for animals, agricultural implements to destitute families is now in progress in all of the area
from which the waters have receded.

"In normal times the course of southern agriculture is to borrow money from month to month with which to produce the crops. The problem of rehabilitation, therefore, becomes a dual problem of relief to the destitute and credit to take care of the future. It is the credit or who attain this position through relief given. In the plantation sections many plantation owners are able or can find the credit to take care of their returning tenants themselves.

"In order to strengthen the impaired credit machinery of the flooded territory, we have, in cooperation with the state reconstruction commissions, created special loan corporations with an aggregate capital, provided by local and national subscriptions, of $2,500,
000. The Intermediate Credit Bank has granted a redemptive ratio of 4 to 1, thus giving loaning ability of about $10,000,000 as a supplement to the normal banking machinery of the country, and mainly to assure that the usual loans are forthcoming to produce the crop. We must undertake a program of sanitation in which the State and private agencies will provide funds, with some supplemental assistance from the Red Cross.

Workers Consult Hoover.

Rehabilitation workers from Southeast Missouri conferred with Hoover at Hotel Statler. They reported that a return of high water
in their section, while not considered as threatening another flood,
is slowing down the work of rehabilitation. They regarded the problem of credit for the small farmer as the principal one before them.

Hoover left for Little Rock last night, accompanied by James L.
Pleser, vice chairman of the American Red Cross, and J. William Richardson, assistant national director of the Red Cross. The relief work is now directed from New Orleans, the headquarters having been removed from Memphis.

EXPECTS U. S. TO LEAD
IN COMMERCIAL FLYINGInventor of Motor Chamberlin
and Lindbergh Used Thinks Its Reliability Proved.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, June 6.—The performance of the motor in the Bel-lanca monoplane which carried Chamberlin and Levine from New York to Germany, means that within the next two years there will be more commercial flying in the United States than in any other part of the world put together," Charles L. Lawrence, president of the Wright Aeronautical Corporation said today.

Lawrence, who is the inventor
of the 500-horsepower Wright motor,
which carried the plane across the Atlantic, said the engine, by setting the world's record of more than 3600 miles non-stop flying,
had proved the essential qualities
for commercial work, economy and durability.

"What commercial flying needs
is not essentially lightness, or even speed, but reliability," he said.
"The motor which Chamberlin used, identical with that used by Capt. Lindbergh on the trip to Paris and by Commander Byrd
last year, gets the flyers where they want to go. Its points are its conservation of power and the fact that it doesn't need often to be overhauled."

Designed for Economy.
Lawrence explained that the cylinders of the motors are so designed that more energy is produced for every explosion than by any previous motors, thus giving a practical maximum of power with a minimum of gasoline consumption.

Although put out by the Wright
Aeronautical Corporation at Paterson, N. J., and called a Wright motor, the motor is the creation of Lawrence, who has been working on it since 1918. Orville Wright, the surviving member of the Wright brothers, is not connected with the Wright Aeronautical Corporation, and has nothing to do with the present product.

LINCOLN MEMORIAL PLANNED
ON PINNACLE MOUNTAIN
Statue of Face of Late President Proposed to be Carved on Huge Boulder.

By the Associated Press.
MIDDLESBORO, Ky., June 6.—
Plans for carving a memorial to Abraham Lincoln on the face of Pinnacle Mountain which overlooks Cumberland Gap have been undertaken by Dr. John Wesley Hill, chancellor of Lincoln Memorial University.

Pinnacle Mountain overlooks
three states and on its great "face"
there is 100 square feet that it is planned to devote to either a great bust of Lincoln or to an entire statue on a heroic scale. C.
S. Paolo, a New York sculptor, who spent three days inspecting the plans said it would take two years to complete the work.

Dr. Hill said details will be worked out this summer and an organization to raise funds for the memorial would be started, and that work might be begun this fall.

ROTARIANS WELCOMED BY BELGIAN KINGAlbert Presides at Opening of International Meeting
at Ostend and Felicitates
the Organization.SPEAKS ON SPIRIT OF CO-OPERATIONAsserts Friendliness in International Relations Can Be Fostered by Amity in Business.

By the Associated Press.

OSTEND, Belgium, June 6.— King Albert officially opened the eighteenth annual convention of Rotary International today. The eight thousand delegates gave the royal Rotarian a prolonged ovation when he appeared in the Great Kursaal for the ceremony. The cheering continued for several minutes while the King bowed repeatedly. The King then delivered an address of welcome, speaking in English.

The King addressed himself particularly to the more than 3000 American delegates, "whose crossing of the Atlantic—the Atlantic which your heroic fellow-countryman, Captain Lindbergh, crossed alone in some 20 hours—is indeed
an important event," he said. "It proves the strength of Rotarian
feeling and co-operative spirit."

"A Rotarian himself," he said, "I feel how sound and trustworthy
your movement is. I am sincerely convinced of the increasing influence of your remarkable organization."

Momen's Part in Work.

King Albert paid tribute to women's part in Rotarian work, and continued:

"The application of the golden rule to personal business, and to community life stimulates the development of that sense of citizenship which is so difficult and yet
so imperatively essential to cultivate. A lively, active civic spirit is the root of all Government. The Rotarian principles are those that make good servants of the state and develop true friendship among the members of nations and society
—the great need of the world."

"The great Rotarian ideal is essentially a humanitarian ideal of brotherhood and may have an efficient application in the broad sphere of international relations.
Friendliness in international relations can be fostered by friendliness in international trade."

"I firmly believe in the brilliant success of this convention. When Kings and congresses,
courts and armies, threats and diplomacy have failed, business and professional men from every nation are coming forward to further the cause of international peace
through international understanding. Harry H. Rogers of San Antonio, Tex., president, told the convention.

Business Men and Peace.
"For some years," he said, "we have been stressing international peace. This is to be advanced by world fellowship of business and professional men. Other means have failed. Here there is a ray of hope. The leading men of all businesses and professions and from all countries must join hands."

Such a union, aiming at international good will, he fostered, Rogers said, by the already understandable interest in high business standards and by the growing interest in relationship of employer and employee.

"Rotary has taught the importance of co-operative effort. And it has taught that we each have an obligation to serve—to serve intelligently, enthusiastically, co-operatively and optimistically."

Since the Edinburgh convention of 1921, at which the world peace ideal was projected, Rotary has made a tremendous gain in Europe,
Rogers recounted.

"Then there were but seven countries in Rotary. Today there are 40, with 2595 clubs. Now there are 251 clubs in the British Isles and 72 clubs on the continent of Europe, with 2500 Rotarians," he said.

King Also at Luncheon.
After the opening exercises a luncheon was served in the Ambassador's Hall. Rogers thanked the King for having accepted the invitation to honor the convention with royal chairmanship. King Albert's speech in reply recalled the history of the Rotary movement
and its world wide spread.

Rogers then announced that the King was an "expert smoker" and wished to express his gratitude to the Rotarian who had presented him with a box of fine cigars.

District Governor Lauren E.
Brudacker of Alabama, thereupon rose and bowed to the King who invited him to the royal table where the King personally thanked Brudacker for the gift.

Will Edwards of the Denton (Tex.) Record and Chronicle, delivered an address at the luncheon predicting a still greater spread of Rotary.

Of Making Many Books

A Lesson From Oriental Song

By LOTUS AND CHRYSANTHEMUM
An Anthology of Chinese and Japanese Poetry. Selected and Edited by Joseph Lewis French. (Boni & Liveright.)

THIS valuable anthology which was designed to be a fairly representative compendium of the whole body of Chinese and Japanese poetry is issued in a number of 1000 copies. Both in format and content it is a desirable item and is not likely to remain long on the market. The relatively few readers who have been persuaded to regard poetry from the viewpoint of the Imagists and other modern schools that specialize in fragmentary, visual impressions, will be enthusiastic over this collection. Others may find much in minor detail that seems exquisitely poetic, without being greatly impressed by the single composition viewed as an organic whole.

This difference in attitudes seems to be explained by the fact, as we are informed, that there is no word for poetry in Chinese. In order to appreciate the meaning of the statement it is necessary to consider the original connotation of the word. The Greek verb "poieo," from which the term poetry is derived, signifies an act of creation, construction. In our Occidental sense, poetry is not primarily a matter of singing, nor is it merely a matter of seeing or feeling and expressing esthetically what is seen and felt. The poetic process is fundamentally a process of combining, of "making" an architectural whole in keeping with some synthesizing vision of the significant relations between apparent fragments of experience.

If the reader of these remarks is at all interested in poetry, he should go back over the preceding paragraph, for it contains the one idea that can explain all the windy controversies between contending schools in our time, in so far as they apply to fundamental conception and not to mere versification. There never should have been any quarrel as to the latter, for poetry is something quite independent of verse mechanisms. It is wholly a matter of conception.

The fact that much of the product of Amy Lowell and H. D. would not sound strange in an anthology of Chinese verse has a very definite meaning. What is to be noted in Mr. French's collection of Oriental verse is the fragmentary, impressionistic nature of that which is communicated to the reader; and by far the greater portion of the data concerned is visual. It is as though the sonneteer were merely a painter in the Oriental manner, who, lacking the material of the painter, was forced to use words instead, and strove to compensate with musical sound for the lack of color.

The point is, that these Oriental singers evidently had no intention in making poetry in our Western sense. Poetry in our sense is essentially dynamic, creative, a building of fragments into a new and living whole. These Oriental singers sang the fragment, much as we sang the fragment, but with a different attitude. Poetry in the Occident is a distinct, masculine art; and it is hardly a matter of coincidence that Imagism should have achieved vogue in a time when a general feminization of literature is to be noted.

It has often been argued by free verse enthusiasts that the accelerated tempo of our time demands the brief, fragmentary, impressionistic thing in poetry. Aside from the exclusive assumption implied, that such poetry is actually read by a considerable representative public, the statement is curious; for a very large public does read novels, and contemporary novels tend to be generalizations of the present pseudo literary orgy began. The "accelerated tempo" seems not to register in the field of popular fiction.

There are at least two reasons for the very noticeable lengthening of the contemporary novel. The first is concerned with the high cost of manufacturing and distribution, as a result of which a novel must fetch a higher price than a book of moderate size would seem to justify in the eyes of a public obsessed with quantitative conceptions. A fairly bulky volume costs little more to bind than a slender one.

Another reason is concerned with the prevailing fashion for formlessness and plodding "realism." A novel conceived, not as an organic whole, but merely as a loosely related collection of incidents, is certain to be rambling; and where there is no clear plan there can be no economy.

THE GREAT GOOD MAN. By William E. Barton. (Bobbs-Merrill.)
"The Life of Abraham Lincoln," by William E. Barton, is now rewritten in condensed and simplified form for young people. The childhood and earlier years of Lincoln are dwelt upon in a manner to make him very real to young readers and even in the brief sketching of the events of his public life the emphasis is upon the child that appeals most strongly to young minds.—F. WASHINGTON U. GIVES HONORS AND PRIZES

Senior Class Makes Farewell Pilgrimage of Campus and Plants Tree.

The annual award of prizes and honors to Washington University, graduating class members for meritorious work took place today at a convocation of seniors and alumni at Graham Memorial Chapel.

During the morning the senior class made a farewell pilgrimage about the campus and planted a tree, after which alumni and seniors joined in luncheon on the campus and went in procession to the chapel. Dr. Stephen H. Voyles, '96, presided and delivered an address. Chancellor Hadley offered greetings.

Acting on behalf of the alumni of the various schools of the university, the following presented the prizes and honors: F. L. Berryhill, '14; Daniel N. Kury, '26; Dr. E. H. Higbee, '97; Dr. Russell C. Wheeler, '19. Other prizes and the honor certificates were presented by Charles Nagel, '22, second vice president of the university corporation, Charles Galloway, organizer, played.

Prizes Awarded.
The prizes, mostly of small sums of money, were awarded as follows:

Fischer; Law School moot court prize for trial work, first to Chester H. Waterhouse and second to E. Louis Klobas; George F. Gill prize for highest grade in anatomical work, William H. Ellett; George F. Gill prize for highest standing in pediatrics, Minola Stallings; highest military standing in Medical R. O. T. C., William C. Goodlet; Julia Stinson scholarship, (4250), Ruth E. Williams; Art Alliance year's scholarship in fine arts for meritorious modeling, Clifton Adams; Wayman Crow medal and scholarship in fine arts for student making greatest year's progress, Louis Freund; Twentieth Century Art Club prize for general excellence in fine arts, Milton Whelpley.

Hundreds of alumni of the university will gather at Hotel Chase this evening at 6:30 o'clock for their annual banquet. A separate dinner gathering by law school alumni will be held at the Century Rost Club.

Vice President Daves will address the commencement exercises at the university field house at 10 a. m. tomorrow, after an academic procession into the building from the campus. His topic will be "The New Diplomacy." The house, which seats about 7000 persons, is on the Big Bend boulevard side of the campus. The main floor and first balcony will be reserved for ticket holders till 9:45 a. m., and then any seats remaining will be public, while the entire second balcony will be open to the public. Chancellor Hadley will confer degrees and the Very Rev. William Scarlett, dean of Christ Church Cathedral, will deliver the invocation.

The senior promenade will be held on the campus tomorrow night.

MUNICIPAL THEATER SEASON OPENS TONIGHT

"Robin Hood" Starts Ninth Summer Engagement—Record Attendance Expected.

The improved Municipal Theater is ready for the opening of its ninth summer season tonight, when the almost wholly new cast of principals and the chorus of 96 will present DeKoven's "Robin Hood." There are 450 more seats, provided by reconstruction of the box section of the outdoor auditorium. A new main entrance and a bridge across River des Peres and other improvements, and facilities for emptying the theater have been improved.

The eight new principals are Miss Myrtle Schaaf, prima donna; Miss Dorothy Seagar, ingenue; Miss Anne Yago, contralto; Allan Rogers, tenor; Robert Pitkin, baritone; Paul Klemm, bass; John Dunsen, bass, and John Cherry, comedian. William McCarthy, comedian, remains from last season.

"Robin Hood," a popular favorite for a quarter of a century, has had previous successful presentations in the Municipal Theater. This season starts with the largest advance sale in the records of the enterprise. The attendance for the season is expected to reach 700,000. Last year nearly 600,000 persons saw the 12 productions. This year, an extensive campaign out-of-town is expected to bring 50,000 visitors.

Follow This Rule

To keep the charm of "That Schoolgirl Complexion"

By NORMA SHEARER

NEVER try unproved methods in skin care. Not when simple proved rules exist that beauty experts agree on.

Today a nightly habit of thousands of women is responsible for complexions more beautiful than any other country boasts. One week's test yourself will prove its results. It is the way that millions have acquired that schoolgirl complexion.

Just do this before you go to bed at night. Wash the face gently with Palmolive. Massage its balmy olive and palm oil later into the skin. Rinse with warm water; then with cold. That is all—it's nature's rule for keeping that schoolgirl complexion. If your skin is inclined to be natural, dry, apply a little good cold cream.

Do that regularly, and particularly at night. Note how much better your skin is even one week. GET REAL PALMOLIVE. Get but 10c a cake. Use no other on your face. But be sure you get GENUINE Palmolive. Crude imitations, represented to be of olive and palm oils, are not the same as Palmolive. Remember that and TAKE CARE. The Palmolive-Pet Co., Chicago, U. S. SERIOUSLY ILL FROM POISON

Man Tries to End Life During Quarrel With Wife.
Frank Krueger, a trunkmaker, of 1207 Monroe street, is in a serious condition at City Hospital today, as a result of having swallowed poison last night, following a quarrel with his wife.
Krueger said he came home early in the evening from a 10-day fishing trip and found a lock on the door to which he had no key. He crawled in a transom and, when his wife came in, she began berating him. Krueger said. When Mrs. Krueger raised a window and started screaming for police, Krueger said he took a bottle of poison and drank from it.

O'Brien Boy Thin and Pale

In a Little Over Two Months Gained Eleven Pounds

As a body builder, an appetite creator, and to make weak, skinny boys and girls sturdy, strong and full of energy, there is nothing like Cod Liver Oil—any physician will tell you that.
But it's vile, horrible stuff to take, and is apt to upset any stomach, so now doctors are prescribing and wise parents are buying McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets—sugar-coated, and as easy to take as candy.
The son of George O. O'Brien of Mahwah, N. J., was thin and pale and did not get enough nourishment from his food. In a little over two months, he gained eleven and one-half pounds, and feels and looks one hundred per cent better.
Mothers, if any of your children are weak, thin or puny, give them these tablets, as directed, for 30 days, and watch them gain flesh and health from day to day—they seldom fail—but if the usual stuff happens and you are not supremely satisfied with results—Wolff-Wilson Drug Stores or your druggist is authorized to return your money.
Be sure—always get the original and genuine McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets—60 tablets 60 cents at any druggist in America. Thousands of boxes sold daily.

BAPTISTS DEFEAT MOTION INDORSING DRY LEAGUE

Refuse to "Commend" Organization to Churches as Their Agency in Enforcing Prohibition Law.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
CHICAGO, June 6.—The Northern Baptist convention, which finished its work yesterday, slapped the Illinois Anti-Saloon League and indirectly the national organization.

When the Rev. M. P. Boynton, leading Chicago Baptist and a member of the executive committee of the State Anti-Saloon League, offered a resolution in language calculated to tie up the church with the League, the thousands of delegates, led by Dr. J. C. Masse of Tremont Temple, Boston, registered opposition. The resolution read in part:
"We commend the Anti-Saloon League to the churches as an agency of the churches in the fight to enforce prohibition laws."

The convention refused to saddle the churches with the personnel of the League as "agents" or assume responsibility for its political policies.
Another part of the resolution, "that as the League is heartily hated by pro-liquor interests it should be cherished and supported by loyal citizens," did not meet with favor, so the whole resolution was voted down.

A resolution denouncing "a committee of the Senate which, having taken possession of the books and correspondence files of the League made them available to liquor organizations to be exploited and misrepresented," was adopted.

DIVORCE CASE DEFENDANT SUES WIFE'S PARENTS FOR $100,000

H. J. Klingler, Produce Dealer, Says They Caused Separation 14 Years After Marriage.
Suit for $100,000 damages was filed today in Circuit Court by Henry J. Klingler, a produce dealer, of 6217 Easton avenue, against his wife's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert H. Kobush, of 5121 Maple avenue. Klingler alleges the parents were responsible for the separation of his wife and himself a year ago, after they had been married 14 years.

A divorce suit against Klingler by Mrs. Klingler is pending in Circuit Court. Another petition filed several weeks ago by Mrs. Klingler, asked that a receiver be appointed to administer real estate and property valued at $150,000, which she said she jointly owns with her husband. In this suit, Klingler appealed the decision of the court, when a temporary receiver was appointed.

SHOTGUN HE WAS MOVING TO PROTECT CHILDREN KILLS HIM

Berton S. Cooper Fatally Injured in Prevention Measure on His Wife's Birthday.

Moving a shotgun to prevent children of a family from playing with it, Berton S. Cooper, accidentally shot and killed himself yesterday afternoon in his home at 1443 North Forty-ninth street, East St. Louis. His three daughters, two sons and a grandchild were at the house to celebrate his wife's sixty-sixth birthday.

Cooper went to a front room alone for the shotgun, only one barrel of which was loaded. The family heard it discharged and found him on the floor, with the shot in his heart and chest. Apparently he had caught the gun on the head of a chair rocker and it was discharged.
He died on the way to St. Mary's Hospital. He was 33 years old and an owner of clubhouses.

The St. Lou

ST.

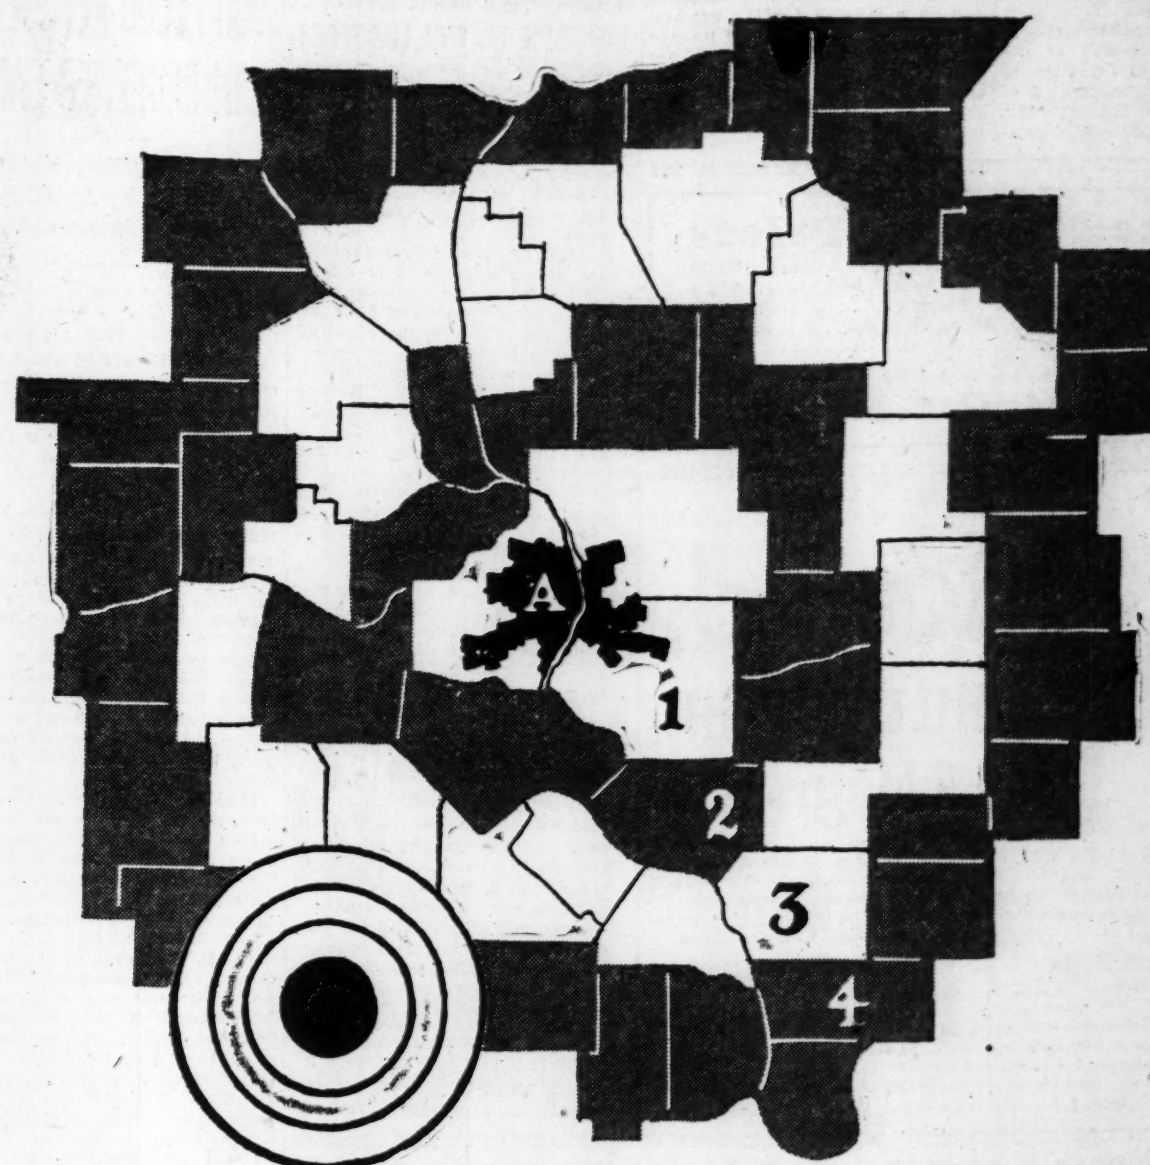

This shows the sparsity of population and wealth per square mile outside The Billionarea.

This shows the concentration of population and wealth per square mile in The Billionarea.

In measuring the value of newspaper circulation, an advertiser is interested only in that part which gives effective coverage in any given market. It is essential to determine where circulation is heavy, where it becomes less effective and where it ceases to be sufficient to be of value.

To visualize the effectiveness of a newspaper's coverage, use the target method of analysis. This gives you the circulation coverage for the metropolitan district, and separately for each successive ring of counties beyond it. All Government statistics on population and purchasing power are compiled by metropolitan districts and individual counties; and metropolitan newspaper circulations are similarly divided.

The truth will out!

when P+D+C is applied

Around each city is a metropolitan district of a few square miles, the natural trading area of that market. You can prove this to yourself. As you drive in your automobile toward any large city, you know immediately where the metropolitan district begins. At a certain point, you pass from open country, where there are ten to fifteen families per square mile, into suburban and city districts, with a thousand or three or four thousand families per square mile. The transition is not gradual—it is sudden. No one could go far wrong in marking the actual market boundary lines of any metropolitan city.

Within the metropolitan area, concentration of families per square mile is 145 times greater than in the small town and rural communities outside of that area. The average production per square mile is 500 times greater. The average purchasing power per family is 3½ times greater. Within the metropolitan area, you can get effective newspaper coverage—outside of it you cannot.

It follows that where people and dollars and circulation are concentrated, there is the greatest opportunity for volume selling at low cost.

These self-evident facts have developed the P+D+C principle of selecting markets and advertising media.

P is population, measured in families, because these are the buying units.

D is dollars or annual wealth production, because this is the measure of purchasing power.

C is circulation coverage as represented by the percentage of families reached, because this measures your ability to influence the buying habit of the entire market.

The truth will out when P+D+C is applied.

The St. Louis Post-Dispatch has carefully analyzed the Greater St. Louis Market. As a result, it has been able to draw an irregular line on the map, which includes all that territory where population, dollars and newspaper COVERAGE are sufficiently concentrated to make volume selling possible at the lowest cost.

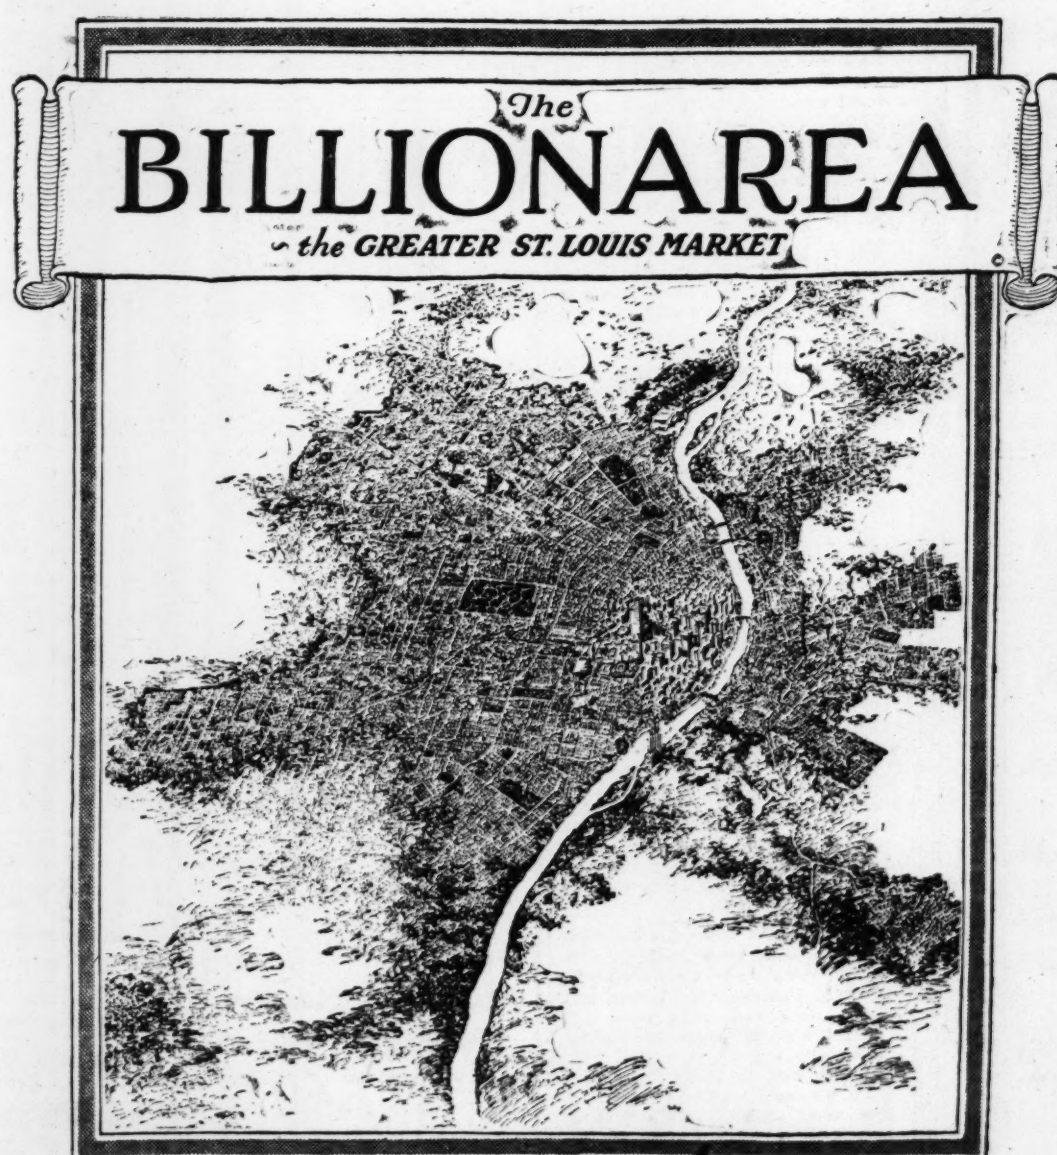

This is The Billionarea—not a mythical zone arbitrarily determined to suit a particular sales argument or a particular newspaper's circulation, but the true and natural St. Louis trading area such as any sales manager would define.

The Billionarea contains a million people who earn and spend more than a billion dollars a year—a market great enough to absorb a large part of the production of any factory. Its retail outlets are concentrated only feet and minutes apart—105 to the square mile—making the work of salesmen rapid, effective and economical.

The St. Louis Post-Dispatch reaches practically every family of buying consequence in the entire area—30,000 more such families daily, 80,000 more such families Sunday—than are reached by any other St. Louis newspaper. This concentration within the true and natural trading area of metropolitan St. Louis brings highly profitable results, as shown by the fact that the Post-Dispatch carries more total advertising—national, local and classified combined, than the second and third St. Louis newspapers added together.

The P+D+C Manual describes the P+D+C and the target method of market and newspaper analysis. Sent on request to anyone interested in the advertising and sales opportunity of this market.

Address St. Louis Post-Dispatch
Saint Louis

The Billionarea is the Greater St. Louis market as it actually exists and as officially designated by the Audit Bureau of Circulations. Its boundary is simply the physical limits of metropolitan St. Louis on both the Missouri and Illinois sides of the Mississippi. It includes all (and only) that area where concentration of People, Dollars and Coverage (P+D+C) offers a volume market at low cost for advertisers.

Prof. D. D. Luckenbill Dies.
By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, June 6.—Daniel David Luckenbill, professor of semiotic languages and literature at the University of Chicago, died of typhoid fever in London Saturday. Mrs. Luckenbill has cabled university officials.

Prof. Luckenbill was on a mission for the oriental institute of the university to the British Museum, working on Assyrian documents. His death leaves uncompleted an Assyrian dictionary on which he had been working for nearly 20 years.

FOR Sour Stomach

PHILLIPS' Milk
of Magnesia

Hereafter instead of soda take a little "Phillips' Milk of Magnesia" in water any time for indigestion or sour, acid, gassy stomach, and relief will come instantly.

Better Than Soda

For fifty years genuine "Phillips' Milk of Magnesia" has been prescribed by physicians because it overcomes three times as much acid in the stomach as a saturated solution of bicarbonate of soda, leaving the stomach sweet and free from all gases. Besides, it neutralizes acid fermentations in the bowels and gently urges this souring waste from the system without purging. It is far more pleasant to take than soda.

Try a 25c Bottle

Insist upon "Phillips' Milk of Magnesia" twenty-five cent and fifty cent bottles, any drug store. "Milk of Magnesia" has been the U. S. Registered Trade Mark of the Charles H. Phillips Chemical Company and its predecessor Charles H. Phillips since 1875.

CHAMBERLIN'S PLANE MUCH LIKE THAT OF LINDBERGH

Both Machines Have Wright Whirlwind Air-Cooled Motors; Wing Spread About Same.

NEW YORK, June 6.—Marked similarity exists in the two monoplanes that have spanned the Atlantic in flights from New York to Europe.

A slightly greater fuel capacity and a larger cabin mainly distinguish the Bellanca monoplane "Columbia" from "The Spirit of St. Louis," the Ryan plane of Capt. Charles A. Lindbergh.

Both planes have Wright whirlwind air-cooled motors. Neither machine carried any radio or gear for landing at sea.

The "Columbia" engine is of 200 horsepower. The craft with its load as it left New York weighed 5650 pounds. It has a wing spread of 46 feet, 6 inches. The cabin can carry eight persons.

"The Spirit of St. Louis" weighs 5000 pounds, has a wing spread of 46 feet. Its body is metal, its wings of wood frame. The cabin accommodates only one person.

The local chapter of the Red Cross has reports indicating that a large part of the land inundated in April and May is under water again and crops in many sections have been drowned out.

McClure, 28 miles northwest of here, is expected to be from six inches to two feet under water today and tomorrow and virtually the same situation exists at Cape Girardeau, Mo., by Thursday and 39.5 feet at New Madrid, Mo., by Saturday. These stages would inundate the vicinity of Dorena, Mo., where water is flowing through an old crevasse and will again threaten New Madrid, which was evacuated during the April-May flood.

Columbus, Ky., where levees were washed away in the first flood, will be inundated and should the river reach the predicted stages.

The gauge at Cairo was 47.8 feet yesterday, a rise of .8 of a foot in the last 24 hours.

HENRY ALBRECHT SR., AND SON SEEK RELEASE FROM JAIL

Petitions of Liquor Law Violators to Be Heard at Danville, Ill., Saturday.

Hearing of petitions requesting that Henry Albrecht Sr., and his son, Henry Albrecht Jr., be released from the Vermillion County jail at Danville, Ill., where, since last January, they have been serving a year's sentence on liquor law convictions, are scheduled before Federal Judge Lindley at Danville next Saturday.

The Albrechts, at the time of their arrest, operated a saloon under the firm name, "Albrecht Wholesale Drug Co.," in East St. Louis. Judge Lindley, who conducted the trial of father and son, in sentencing them said they were "undesirable citizens who had flaunted the law deliberately."

Affidavits of two physicians accompanying the father's petition state he is ill and should be released. In the case of the son, it is held that the ends of justice have been served by imprisonment of several months. Affidavits as to young Albrecht's character, one of them signed by Judge Webster of the St. Clair County Court, are affixed to the son's petition. The Albrechts reside at 3224 Longfellow boulevard.

6000 ATTEND OZARK 'SINGING'

Old Songs Used in Annual Revival of Pioneer Custom.

CEDAR GROVE, Mo., June 6.—From a radius of more than 100 miles, about 6000 Ozark residents of four states—pioneers and the descendants of pioneers, old-timers and their neighbors, and a sprinkling of tourists, gathered yesterday for the thirty-second annual "singing," which takes place here the first Sunday in June each year.

By daylight the participants began to arrive, and many lingered until after dark. The "singing" began at 10 o'clock in the Missionary Baptist Church and lasted until 4, with time out for a great picnic and basket dinner at Erbs Park. The old Christian Harmony song book, which contains many hymns more than 100 years old, was used as it has been in the Ozarks since white men came here. The Cedar Gap "singing" was established 22 years ago by Syra Odle, a Union soldier and singing master, who settled near Cedar Gap and went about holding singing schools over the district. It now is carried on by his son, Paris E. Odle.

Cabaret Singer Attempts Suicide.

By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, June 6.—Swallowing poison and slashing her wrists, Mrs. Alice Munn Prevost, 26 years old, cabaret singer, tried to commit suicide in her hotel room. She was removed to the County Hospital, where it was said her condition was serious. In a farewell note the young woman said she knew the slayer of Mrs. Mabel Woods, 18-year-old bride, who was found in a hotel several weeks ago. At the time of Mrs. Woods' death, Mrs. Prevost and her husband, Delbert Prevost, were held as suspects, but were cleared.

3000 FLOOD REFUGEES IN REOPENED CAMPS

New Madrid, Mo., and Other Towns Hit by April Flood, Again Threatened.

By the Associated Press.

CAIRO, Ill., June 6.—Three thousand flood refugees are being cared for in six Red Cross camps re-established in Alexander and Pulaski Counties as the overflowing Mississippi and Ohio Rivers forced them from the lowlands near here.

Camps at McClure, Gale, Thebes, Miller City and Mounds, which were maintained in the April and May floods, have been opened again in the face of another threatened serious rise in the rivers.

The local chapter of the Red Cross here reports indicating that a large part of the land inundated in April and May is under water again and crops in many sections have been drowned out.

WAS THIN, WEAK AND SUFFERING

Lady Says She Seemed to Be Getting Worse and Worse Until She Acted on a Neighbor's Good Suggestion.

"I was so thin and wasted looking, my friends hardly knew me," declares Mrs. Orca Crawford, of Lathrop, Texas. "I suffered a lot. I had pains in my back and sides. Nothing did me any good, and I was worried about myself."

"I tried first one thing and then another, but I did not get any better. One day as my husband started to the drug store for medicine for me, a neighbor suggested that he get Cardui. He brought it home to me and I began to take it. I soon began to feel better. I could see that my appetite was picking up, and I began to gain in weight. I slept better and was less nervous. I continued the medicine for some time and I became strong and well. I had weighed 95 pounds and after a while I weighed 160 pounds."

"Several times since then, when I felt run-down, I have gotten Cardui and taken it; and always after a course of the medicine I have been greatly improved in health. It is remarkable how I responded to the Cardui Home Treatment, and I do not hesitate to recommend it to any woman who is suffering from ailments or nervousness."

MEETING TO DISCUSS SOUTHERN APPROACH

Mayor Calls Improvement Associations to Consider Bridge
Bill Wednesday.

Mayor Miller today called a meeting of representatives of local improvement associations, to be held at 2 p. m., Wednesday in the Board of Public Service Chamber,
to consider the bill for construction of the Southern approach of the Municipal Bridge, at a cost of $1-500,000 of bond issue funds.

Invitations were sent to the officers of 51 organizations, all that the Mayor could find in printed lists. The members of the Board of Aldermen and the Board of Public Service will be asked to attend the meeting, and C. E. Smith, consulting engineer for the city, who made the survey for the Southern approach, will explain the plans.

The bill, favored by the Mayor,
providing for immediate construction of the approach, has been introduced into the Board of Aldermen, and is now ready to be referred to a committee, as the regular Public Utilities committee or the special bridge committee of 11,
which is headed by President Neun
of the Board.

Neun, in his inaugural address
in April, spoke in favor of the drafting of a "Board of Aldermen bill," to be a comprehensive measure covering all phases of the bridge question. Mayor Miller's hurry-up program, for passage of the southern approach bill before the summer adjournment of the aldermen June 24, does not fit in this plan, and Neun has not yet committed himself on the Mayor's proposal.

It is expected that organizations advocating the southern approach will be conspicuous in Wednesday's meeting. Frank H. Gehart, most active participant in the bridge argument, and member of some improvement bodies, is demanding that the northeast approach be constructed along with the southern approach. The 1923 bond issue provided $1,500,000 for each, but
city engineers say the southern
approach can be built for that sum,
and that the northeast approach
will cost two or three times as much.

WABASH ASKS DISMISSAL
OF DELMAR VIADUCT PROTEST

Railroad's Agreement to 19 '8-Foot Clearance Removes Legal Barrier Against Project.

A legal step toward construction of the Delmar crossing viaduct was taken today when the State Public Service Commission dismissed the application of the City of St. Louis and the Wabash Railroad, filed Feb. 4, 1926, for modification of the Commission's order
provided $1,500,000 for each, but
city engineers say the southern
approach can be built for that sum,
and that the northeast approach
will cost two or three times as much.

The modification which the city and the Wabash had asked was a change of the clearance from 18
feet to 20 feet over the tracks, provided in a compromise agreement which did not go into effect.

By dropping the compromise proposal, the city and the railroad revert to the order, which was for an 18-foot clearance.

The Brotherhood of Railway
Trainmen is asking the commission to revise the order to require a 22-foot clearance, as provided in the law of 1925, but the State Supreme Court has held this law does not apply to the commission's Delmar order, issued in 1923.

The city has set June 18 as the time for letting the contract for concrete construction.

CUCKOO GANG ASSOCIATE FREED
ON HIGHWAY ROBBERY CHARGE

A charge of robbery against Raymond Tipton, associate of Cuckoo gangsters, was dismissed
today when State witnesses failed to identify him.

Tipton was arrested after an armed man had held up William Burroughs in his butcher shop at 1407 Hickory street, Jan. 22, taking $70. Police announced he had been identified as the robber, but he was discharged at a preliminary hearing when not identified by Burroughs and John Schroeder, who was in the store. The grand jury indicted him later, and today
Assistant Circuit Attorney Dow-cock nolle prossed the case, before Circuit Judge Ossing.

The witnesses denied ever having identified Tipton as the robber. Burroughs said he had told police he "thought" Tipton was the robber, but was not certain.

Tipton has been in jail two months.

Mrs. Howard P. Savage, wife of the national commander of the American Legion, was returned to Chicago today from Milwaukee,
where she died late yesterday. Mr.
Savage was with her at the end.
She had been a patient in Sacred Heart Sanitarium. Funeral services will be held Wednesday.

COVETED LANGLEY MEDAL FOR LINDBERGH

Smithsonian Institution Announces Citation of New York to Paris Flyer.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, June 6.—Charles
A. Lindbergh today was admitted to the rare company associated with Samuel Pierpont Langley in the founding of aviation.

The Smithsonian Institution awarded him the coveted Langley medal, which in the nineteen years since its establishment has been given to only four others, all permanent stars in the science of aeronautics. They were Orville and Wilbur Wright, Glenn H. Curtis and Gustave Eiffel, a Frenchman.

Lindbergh's citation read: "For his magnificent nonstop flight from New York to Paris."

The die for the medal is kept in the Paris mint, and it is expected the presentation will be delayed. Chief Justice Taft probably will make the formal award at the meeting of the institution's board of regents in December.

The Langley medal is of gold,
three inches in diameter. The face around the rim bears the Smithsonian seal which is two torches, and this inscription: "For the increase and diffusion of knowledge
among men. Smithsonian Institution, Washington, 1846." In the center will appear the words,
"Langley medal. Aerodromic, Charles A. Lindbergh."

Lindbergh is described by the institution as "the man who laid the experimental basis of the science of aviation."

Women's Edict Will Banish the Boyish Figure, Says Worth

Beauty, Declares Great Designer, Must Have Proportion and Gracious Curves and the Lack of These in the Current Feminine Mode Will Not Be Tolerated Much Longer.

EUROPEAN scientists say the pursuit of the boyish figure is sending thousands of women to hospitals and tuberculosis camps. European artists and creators of fashions say womanly comeliness cannot be achieved with straight lines.

Pierre and Cagale Van Passen, special European correspondents of the Post-Dispatch, have interviewed scores of professors and artists. With scarcely a dissenting voice they say the flapper figure for mothers and grandmothers must go. Worth, the great fashion designer, looks to woman herself to bring about the change that will restore dignity and proportion.

ARTICLE III.
By CORALIE VAN PASSEN,
PARIS.

THE so-called boyish type is an insane monstrosity for most women. It is contrary to all aesthetic conceptions of beauty, as held by ancient and modern artists, because it does away with proportion, and proportion is the greatest single essential of beauty, according to Mr. Worth, director of the tone-giving Paris fashion house.

"Nature abhors a straight line and so does the creator of style," he said, when I came to ask him his opinion on the so-called boyish type that is all the rage in New York, Berlin, Paris, Bucharest and even Moscow.

The boyish type, first suggested as the ideal for the young girl and later adopted by her mother, grandmother and great-grandmother, has never been really an artistic conception of the feminine figure.

"The masters of art always represented their ideal woman with beauty of face and figure," said Mr. Worth, "that is to say, with gracious curves, never flat either in feet, chest or hips."

"There is such a thing as proportion," he continued, "and that constitutes a closer approach to the ideal than the present vogue. Beautiful Dress Always Draped."

The Venus de Milo, whose proportions would not be considered quite common if fast by our modern girls, has always been the ideal. Study her, measure her and imagine the sculptor replacing those measurements with the cylindrical limits of the straight one-piece dress. No drapery, no grace, just unimaginative straight lines and what will have left?

"We have had ugly fashions and graceful fashions in the course of history. But the universally beautiful dress has always been the costume that was draped or puffed, that gave you at least an idea of the curves of the body."

"People will make the objection that the Egyptians at least had adopted the straight line. That they were in favor of showing the boyish type to its best advantage. This is a fallacy. It is wrong to associate the Egyptian monuments. Because Egyptians built the pyramids we should not think of the women as angular and stiff any more than we should think of the Americans in terms of the Washington Monument or Grant's Tomb; that is to say, topped by a dome. On the contrary, the Egyptian drapery was as supple as the robes of the later Greeks."

The latest fashions for this summer show awaying front folds in the skirts. This is already a tremendous improvement on the straight line or angle. The present boyish type has no beauty. It is not the ideal woman. And the couturier plans only for the ideal woman. To me the ideal woman is neither too short nor too tall, nor too thin nor too stout. She has proportion. If she is tall, she carries herself well and therefore wears her gowns with dignity. If she is petite, she develops her own charm and becomes a miniature Venus. But in my estimation there is no ideal to which any woman may not attain by considering her preponderant characteristics. She can always develop her own characteristics.

"But the boyish figure has no proportions that suggest development. If a woman's dimensions are the same at her shoulders as at her hips, and if her waist is represented by an imaginary line that ranges from her normal waistline to her knees, I consider that she has no proportions. There is no symmetry and there is not the slightest inkling in the boyish type that suggests to an artist any of those beautiful nuances of line and grace which from the earliest days of sculpture have represented the female form divine."

It's all wrong, says Mr. Worth, for our girls to imagine that in order to be chic and smart, they must be thin and flat. Actual measurements do not matter in the least. Proportion is everything. There are women who are stout and still beautiful. Yes, even more beautiful than if they had reduced their stoutness to nothing.

The flapper figure of today and the better-proportioned Indian maiden, unspoiled by reducing creams and purple pills.

"Anything disproportionate is static, reactionary," said Mr. Worth, "Good proportions, whether of men, women, mentalities or politics, are progressive."

Imagination Will Triumph.

It is his opinion that the smart woman will not remain content with the straight line. He feels that women have far too much imagination and intuition to continue following the boyish type idea. And indeed how monotonous would the world be if it were peopled with vertical uncurved women and static unimaginative men.

But even Mr. Worth does not consider that the boyish figure will disappear altogether. It cannot disappear, because with one class of women, or rather young women, it is wholly natural. That class he calls "the young, unformed, charmingly unspoiled sub-debutante."

To make the choice of fashion, to select the new fashion styles, the couturiers naturally must have at their disposal the services of a host of women and girls. The work of forecasting fashion is not an easy one, neither for the creator of style nor the model.

She must be healthy and strong to stand the strain. I asked Mr. Worth therefore what type of women were best suited for the task.

Vitality a Transcendent Charm.

"We want the woman who is vital, alert. For that is the one transcendent charm of woman," he replied. "The woman who sacrifices her health and proportions in the insane quest for the flat line sacrifices her most precious birthright."

In all things the modern fashion designer is guided by the precepts of the ancients. "Go back to the sculpture of the classics," he continued. "Study that perfect sports-woman, Diana. Diana had no need of drugs, reducing creams, salts or purple pills. Yet tradition has it that she was always foremost in the chase and was worshipped as a type of grace."

All modern women are not chasing deer. It would be too hard on the poor deer, no doubt. But many may be in pursuit of men. And some are in pursuit of fashion. But whatever her quarry, she seeks it through grace and womanliness. The secret of grace and womanliness, according to Mr. Worth, lies in proportion. It is also the secret of beauty.

The boyish type, according to this famous man, whose precepts on fashion are law the world over, is doomed to disappear. It has had its day. It has proven to be an insanity, an unnatural debasement of woman. Not all the maledictions of scientists, artists, couturiers, however, could have banished it. Woman herself is the final arbiter. And she, supreme and independent, has decreed that the boyish type must go.

VISITING
By Angelo Patri.

Angelo Patri is just the principal of a New York grade school, but the late Charles W. Eliot, president of Harvard, said Patri is doing more for common-school education than any other person in America. This school, a model in every respect, is a mecca for teachers from all parts of the country.

PEGGY was a very good child at home. She obeyed sweetly enough and only once in a long time did she have to sit on the bad chair, a straight-backed chair set apart for meditation and penitential purposes.

Mother decided that Peggy was old enough now to be taken visiting. There was no one with whom she cared to leave her and unless all old friendships were to vanish, calls must be made. Accordingly Peggy was dressed in a frilly blue dress that made her look like the fairy in the flax bloom, given many cautions and instructions, her very best doll, and a trip in the car. Mother was to visit her old school chum.

"What a darling," said School Chum.

"Yes, she is," said mother proudly. "Say how-do-you-do, Peggy."

Peggy stuck a finger in her rosebud mouth, squirmed around behind her mother and said nothing at all.

"Why Peggy," said mother. "She'll come around all right," said School Chum. "Bring her in and make her comfortable and we'll have a good chat. Mercy, it's ages since I saw you and so much has happened."

"Yes, isn't it wonderful the changes time makes, and how fast they come. I've been married these four years now, and in that time it seems as if everything and everybody had changed places. A regular push-in-the-corner game. Mercy, what's that?"

Peggy had chased a charming yellow and blue and scarlet cockatoo off his perch just to see if he was alive and found he was. Then she had tried to snatch a gay feather out of his wing and he had nipped her so the blood streamed, a tiny red thread, down her arm. And the poor cockatoo, chained to his perch had pulled down the whole business. It was quite an affair.

School Chum rescued the cockatoo with many an endearing word and soothing pat and mother gave first aid to the wounded arm of her darling Peggy. When the friends settled down again, there was a nervous constraint in their voices and every now and then one or the other would turn nervously to see what Peggy was about. For a while she sat quietly playing with her doll and a set of dishes School Chum provided. Then seeing herself forgotten she climbed up on the couch, reached across the table for a cup of tea and the skinned legged table fell. And much else fell.

In the horror stricken silence that followed, Peggy didn't even yell. Mother found her voice, strained and shaken, but her voice still. "Have you a bad chair here?"

I think I saw one? Well, Peggy will sit still on it for a while please. And Peggy was perched in plain sight, on a big oak chair out in the hall. Peace reigned once more.

After a spell of it Peggy was fidgety to speak. "Mother dear, I think I know now. I thought visiting was different but it's just like home. If I can come down now I can be good." And she was perched good for the rest of the day. School Chum insisted that they stay and they did.

It might be that if visiting was just like home, more mothers could go visiting.

The Diary of a New Father

Sunday Night

JOAN had breakfast ready this morning by the time I managed to climb out of bed, and she said hurry up or I would not get any, and so I went to the table in my bathrobe, and when I sat down she had the Sunday paper piled up in front of her and I said, "Can I have the want ads, please?"

Joan said, "You're looking very natural for Sunday morning, darling, but you aren't acting like yourself. Are you ill?" I said, "Now what?" and she said, "You worry me, dear." I said, "Go ahead and spring it," and she said, "Why, you're forgetting to read the comics first."

Well, I let that pass, and I started looking through the want ads, and Joan said, "Are you looking for a place to live?" and I said, "Yes," and she said, "Don't bother. I read all of the 'Apartments for Rent' while I was getting breakfast, and there isn't a thing."

I said, "People live in other places besides apartments, don't they?" and she said, "Some live in hotels, of course. Are you thinking of renting a hotel?"

I said, "What's the matter with a house?" and Joan was pouring my coffee, but she stopped all of a sudden and put the percolator down, and she got one of those looks on her face like a lady being given a washing machine in a Christmas advertisement, and she said, "A bungalow! Why, Bob, what a MARVELOUS idea! Why didn't we think of it before?"

I said, "We didn't think of it even now. I thought of it—all by myself." Joan said, "Just think of owning a house!" I said, "OWNING a house? Who said anything about buying one?" and she said, "Well, you wouldn't just rent one, would you?" I said, "Once upon a time there was a guy who did. How am I going to buy a house?" Joan said, "All the ads say, 'Easy terms—like rent.'"

I said, "Ha, ha. How can terms be easy if they're like rent?" Joan said, "But it would be so silly to rent a house when we could just as well be buying it for the same monthly payments." and I said, "Didn't you ever hear of taxes and plumbers and painters and things?" and she said, "What of it? Just THINK of having a place of our very own!"

I said, "Yes, just try and think of it." Well, we argued about it for awhile, and finally Joan decided I was going to buy a bungalow, and we took the car and started looking, and we found two or three that we liked, and we are going to hunt some more tomorrow, and I guess before the week is out I will be signing something that I started out to rent, and it will probably make me so broke that a bankruptcy court would not waste its time on me, but there is one nice thing about it, and that is that we will not have to live across the hall from the Stewart family any more, because there is not any across the hall in a bungalow, and that will be like getting the place for nothing, even if it costs me a million dollars.

Well, Mother found her voice, strained and shaken, but her voice still. "Have you a bad chair here?"

I think I saw one? Well, Peggy will sit still on it for a while please. And Peggy was perched in plain sight, on a big oak chair out in the hall. Peace reigned once more.

Flowers for the Table

By Hannah Wing

NO phase of flower arrangement is more constantly recurring than that of table decoration. There may be either a central arrangement or something at each place or, for a very special occasion, a combination of both. Little flat water cups, which cost only 40 cents a dozen, are very appropriate for certain flowers. For a small table one low, central composition is usually most desirable.

For a long table there may be a central arrangement and others that are subordinate. The shape of the centerpieces should repeat the shape of the table, it should be round for a round table, or long and narrow if the table is that shape. The color of the flowers should harmonize with the color of the china and of the room.

Simplicity and fitness are guide words to use in the selection of a receptacle for any decorative arrangement of flowers, and every homemaker should have a large variety. This does not necessarily entail a large expense. Many excellent containers may be obtained for less than a dollar, and some can be obtained without money and without price, being the containers for olives, mustard, oil, ginger, or other commodities. These are much better than the vases, ugly in line, unwieldy in shape, aggressive in color, overloaded with decoration, that are manufactured to sell to the innocent and the unwary. The color or the decoration on the receptacle should be in accord with that which it contains, echoing its color, line or shape, but never trying to outdo it. The province of the receptacle is to serve; its highest use is to supplement, to enhance, the beauty of the composition; as does the accompaniment of the song; as does the frame the picture; as does the gown the woman.

A suggestion for the color of receptacles may be taken from the natural environment of the flowers. Swamp orchids spring from gray-green beds of moss, delicate, icy colored flowers of the springtime from the brown leaves of the previous autumn, and later summer flowers from the soft green tints of the sod land.

For many flowers nothing is better than plain glass bowls or vases, which may be obtained in a variety of shapes at a good department store. The stems showing through the glass add an effect.

After a spell of it Peggy was fidgety to speak. "Mother dear, I think I know now. I thought visiting was different but it's just like home. If I can come down now I can be good." And she was perched good for the rest of the day. School Chum insisted that they stay and they did.

It might be that if visiting was just like home, more mothers could go visiting.

Contentment

By Lucy Lowell.

JUST how far, a friend asks, it is wise to be contented with one's lot?

She is quite happy in the present, she writes me—a thing unusual in itself if she has happened to think of it.

But she mistrusts this happiness. She has a lurking fear that contentment means laziness. And while she does not wish to give up her satisfaction with things as they are, she also is determined not to lose the ambition which already has brought her a fair amount of success in her profession.

"There must be others like me," she writes. "And what ought we to do? I feel that I should be a little discontented and yet I hate to relinquish contentment."

Why give up contentment? Why not keep that and be just a little discontented at the same time? A wonderful combination that, rightly used.

Be a trifle discontented with the future. Oh, not in a selfish way—not in a way to make you feel unsure of yourself and doubt your own destiny.

Be discontented in this way, that the present, however happy and fine it is, cannot be happy and fine enough for me to settle. That is progress; to wish for something better; to know something fine must come because you are going to make it come.

But don't forget that you will be better able to control destiny if you are serene. If, in fact, you are contented with the present as it is.

All progress is based on discontent. Discontent with things as they are mixed with the ability to see things as they might be. The capacity for superimposing the ideal upon the real and the will to make the blend.

Oh, by all means, keep contentment. But accept discontent as well. The future will take care of itself if you do this.

THE WOMAN OF IT

The Mother Who Doesn't Crash In

WHEN people have not been talking about Capt. Charles Lindbergh's gloriously audacious achievement, they have discussed delightedly the sort of young man he appears to be—his modesty, his unaffectedness, his poise, his serenity of soul. How many have noticed that all these qualities are quietly but unmistakably apparent in Capt. Charles Lindbergh's mother, as perfect an illustration as the public has been given of what the mother of modern youth should be?

For she is the mother who doesn't crash in on youth's adventure with pessimistic warnings, foreboding, or cash in on it with demands for money and credit.

She knows how to love her son, yet let him work out his own salvation. She must have worried and agonized, in her heart, even when he first took up flying, and especially when he decided on the great adventure. He is "the only son of his mother and she a widow." Many an American woman, in such circumstances, would have pleaded with her boy to "stay with her," to work at "something safe—not that dreadful flying." Many a woman would have considered that she was justified in allowing her selfish devotion for her only son to interfere with what he wanted to do in life.

Other widowed mothers, like the "parasite parents" whom we discussed the other day in the column, would argue that a boy of theirs ought to take up work by which he could "be a support to them in their old age." Of course, Capt. Lindbergh, if he takes advantage of present opportunities, will be able to support a townful of aged mothers—but neither he nor his mother could have guessed such a consummation when he adopted aviation as a career. Mrs. Evangeline Lindbergh hampered his ambitions by no pathetic plea about her own needs. She herself took on the job of supplying them by teaching school.

It was Charles' own life and he had a right to do what he pleased with it—that must have been her attitude from the beginning. The attitude is so perfectly the one which a fair-minded, non-interfering modern mother should take toward every child, after he or she comes of age. When the young star wins success that, too, should be acknowledged his own by his mother. "The glory is all my son's," insists Mrs. Lindbergh, and she cannot be beguiled into implying that she "made" Charles. She respects his individuality in the time of triumph, as in the years when he was struggling to find himself, and she won't even "butt in" on his Paris triumph. With devotion and dignity she sings that he is not tied to her apron strings.

Young birds able to leave the nest fly alone. Human children, able and ready to go their own way, too seldom are allowed to do so by their parents. "Lucky" Charles Lindbergh not only flew alone in his plane, he "flew alone" in the sense of choosing his destiny without maternal meddling. So he truly is lucky!

And is it just a coincidence that Mrs. Evangeline Lindbergh should have her own interesting job, teaching chemistry in a Detroit high school, and so should be too busy and useful a person for that perilous performance of the old-fashioned woman left stranded in an empty home—the performance known as "living her life in her children's"?

Yowler the Bobcat Snares

Even midst the most courageous Fear you'll find becomes contagious.

—Old Mother Nature.

FOOTPRINTS in themselves are of no particular interest to Sammy Jay. Sammy isn't particularly afraid of any one who makes footprints, for the simple reason that Sammy is seldom on the ground where makers of footprints are likely to catch him. But the strange footprints in the sand on the shore of the pond of Paddy the Beaver had aroused Sammy's interest so that he could think of little else. Anything that would send Old Man Coyote home to the Old Pasture in a hurry, that would make Paddy the Beaver anxious, and that would prevent Lightfoot the Deer taking the drink he had come down to the pond for was bound to be of interest to Sammy Jay.

"Lightfoot appears to be frightened," said Sammy.

Paddy the Beaver nodded. "He has reason to be," said he. "I saw those footprints and he forgot he was thirsty. I doubt if he shall see Lightfoot down here again for some time."

"Those footprints looked to me a good deal like those of Yowler the Bobcat, only they are bigger," said Sammy. "Are you sure that they are not the footprints of Puma the Panther?"

"Quite sure," replied Paddy. "I've seen the footprints of Puma many times. Those footprints are much like Puma's, but they are not his. It wouldn't be half so bad if we knew whose footprints they are. It is the uncertainty that makes it so difficult. Look! There is Yowler the Bobcat coming along the shore. Let us watch him."

Sure enough, there was Yowler the Bobcat. Sammy kept absolutely quiet. Yowler came sneaking along as only a cat can. It was plain that nothing was disturbing him. He would lift his head now and then and look and listen, and with his nose he sniffed at everything he passed. He was not particularly hungry, but Yowler isn't one to carelessly pass a possible tidbit in the way of a fat Wood Mouse. Now and again he stopped to look at Paddy the Beaver. Perhaps he was thinking of the many times that he had tried to steal up on Paddy while Paddy was at work cutting trees. Finally he came to the muddy place where the strange footprints were. At first he started to go around. He didn't want to get his feet wet. Then, happening to look down, he saw the footprints there and he froze right where he was. That means that he stood just as still as if he actually were frozen.

"What do you mean?" inquired Paddy, looking puzzled.

Sammy Jay looked at Paddy the Beaver. Paddy looked up at

Women's Simpler Hygiene

More absorbent—
Discards like tissue

By ELLEN J. BUCKLAND
Registered Nurse

ALL the problems of old-time hygienic ways have recently been ended, largely because of a new way called Kotex.

Kotex discards as easily as tissue. Thus no laundry, no embarrassment of disposal. Being 5 times as absorbent as ordinary cotton "pads," you wear lightest gowns and frocks without slightest fear. Decorizes, too, thus ending all fear of offense. Obtain at any store without embarrassment simply by saying "Kotex." Many stores have it already wrapped on counters, ready for you to pick up and take along without even asking for it. Try today and you'll never again risk the uncertainty of old ways. Box contains 12. Be sure you get the genuine. Only Kotex itself is "like" Kotex.

RECIPES FROM "My Old Virginia Cook Book"

Pennut.
Take 4-cups of brown sugar; 1-scant cup of milk; a piece of butter the size of an egg; and about 2-cups of peanuts. Put sugar, butter and milk into a saucepan and let heat up slowly, stirring occasionally. Let boil until when a little dropped into cold water will make a soft ball. Take from fire and beat a minute. Then add peanuts and beat some more. As soon as it begins to get creamy, pour into buttered pans and as it gets firm cut in squares. Walnuts or pecans may be used in place of peanuts.

Sammy. "Yowler was afraid," said he.

Sammy nodded. "Yes," said he. "Yowler was afraid. There isn't a shadow of a doubt about that—he was afraid. I wish I could smell." Paddy, looking puzzled.

"I mean just what I said," replied Sammy. "I wish I had a nose that would tell me things as the nose of Old Man Coyote tells him. Sometimes it would help out my eyes wonderfully. You see, I should just like to go over and find out what a good nose would tell me about the maker of those tracks."

Proper Use of Rouge

By Josephine Huddleston

DO YOU get your rouge on the cheeks in the exact place that nature intended your roses to bloom? If not, let me tell you just how to do this, for it is vastly important to your beauty.

First, bathe the face gently for a few moments with very warm water, then quickly dash some cold water over the skin and follow this with an ice massage. The ice massage in reality just means rubbing a bit of ice over the skin until it tingles and glows.

Now, mirror in hand, go to window and while patting the face, dry with a soft cloth, watch carefully just where the color has been brought up by the above treatment. That is where nature intended the high color of your facial tint to be and that is where your rouge should be applied.

There are two sound reasons why one should know just where nature intended the color accents to be. The first is this—by an accurate placement of color the contour of the face is balanced. The second reason is equally important, for it prevents the possibility of two sets and shades of color on the face, as often happens when the natural color comes into the face and the rouge is misapplied.

If the cheek bones are high you will notice that the treatment given above will bring out the color stronger on the cheek bones and on the jaws. Without the color note on the jaws, the high cheek bones would be too prominent.

In some cases the color will be all toward the nose and fade out to a faint pink on the cheeks. In other cases the high color will be out on the cheeks and fade as it spreads toward the nose.

Whatever the results brought out by the treatment, follow them and you'll be delighted with the improvement in your make-up.

Another point of interest while we are on the subject of rouge is this—the darker the coloring of the skin and hair the brighter the face coloring will be. This means, of course, that the pale blonde type must use a pale rouge and the dusky beauty will find that raspberry, vermilion or dark orange will blend with her coloring better than the lighter or medium shades of rouge.

Satin, in shades of parchment, Nile green, French beige and pearl gray is being made up into blouses and skirts and is very smart for sports wear.

Proof

That Our Service
Is Cheaper

* If you'll take pencil and paper, put down all the costs and compare the figures, you'll have the proof that Cascade Wet Wash is much more economical than doing your family washing yourself with modern home washing equipment.

Put down the cost of equipment, such as tubs, washboards, a washing machine, etc. On the basis of using this equipment for 5 years, the cost will average about 57c per wash day. Then add to this your other expenses each week—soap, about 10c; gas, 10c or 15c; electricity, 15c; water, 5c; blueing, etc., 5c or 10c. The total, you will find, exclusive of your labor, will be over $1 per week. Your time—4 to 6 hours—for such drudgery, is certainly worth 50c per hour.

Now if you send your family washing to us you will only have to pay $1.20 if the bundle weighs 20 pounds; $1.50 for 25 pounds and $1.80 for 30 pounds. And you will have no worry, inconvenience or drudgery—no rough hands or aching back. And our efficient, scientific methods insure that the work will be done each week with unvarying satisfaction and reliability.

Two Die at Chicago Races.
The Associated Press.
CHICAGO, June 7.—When the horses entered in the fourth race at Washington Park entered the stretch yesterday, with a 15 to 1 shot in the lead, Harry S. Hill, 40 years old, a barber, fell dead from a heart attack. Three races later, the horses were being led back to the stable. Dr. L. Lazard, 82-year-old track doctor, died.
